Day Of Decision Faces Voters At Polls In District

By SAM HANNA
Staff Writer

Louisiana's day of political decision is here. Today is election day and a record number of voters is expected to go to the polls, starting at 6 p.m., to cast ballots in the first Democratic primary.

For a record number of 1,095,747 registered voters, the polls will close at 8 p.m. and the mammoth job of tabulating unofficial returns will follow. Because of the speedy voting machine, the final trend should crystallize before midnight.

CLIMAX

That will be the climax to a campaign that had political observers scratching their heads as late as last night while gubernatorial candidates got in last-minute punches.

Although 11 names will appear on today's ballot for governor, only five are considered major contenders for Louisiana's top governmental position.

Pre-election polls showed Jimmie H. Davis and DeLoessens (Chep) Morrison heading for a January 9 second primary with Son, W. M. Rainey, William J. (Bill) Dodd and James A. Noe trailing.

Other gubernatorial candidates include H. M. Allen, Gale Berry, John B. Krey Jr., Allen G. LaCombe, Mack P. Stewart and A. Roswell Thompson.

Gov. Earl K. Long, meanwhile, will have his political strength put to test against five other candidates for lieutenant governor—C. C. Aycock, W. George Bowden, Cy D. F. Courtney, Frank V. Jordan Jr. and William J. White.

Other top state offices to be voted on include secretary of state, attorney general, treasurer, agriculture commissioner, register of land office, insurance commissioner, voting machine commissioner.

State of Education Shelly M. Jackson is the only state incumbent without opposition.

A new Legislature will be voted on also. In Northeast Louisiana

Ike Discusses Cold War Issue With Italians

ROME (AP) — President Eisenhower brought his good-will to rainy Rome Friday, talked cold war issues with Italian officials, and capped his day by attending a gala reception for 3,000 persons.

The reception, drawing members of Rome's political and diplomatic set, highlighted the first day of Eisenhower's 11-nation trip.

Eisenhower stayed at the reception less than half an hour, heading up the stairs to his apartment in rambling Quirinal Palace at 10:30 p.m. The guests had been invited for 9:15 p.m.—almost an hour earlier than state receptions usually are held here — so the President could get to bed early at the end of his tiring first day.

Eisenhower, ruddy-faced and healthy, arrived at 10 p.m. after a dinner with President Giovanni Gronchi, Premier Antonio Segni and other Italian officials. He moved slowly through 20 lavishly furnished chambers filled with guests. The President smiled at all and stopped many times to shake hands with persons he recognized.

Once he stopped to admire a large, lighted cake made in the form of the White House.

Then he shook hands with Gronchi and said good night.

Eisenhower turned to Carla Gronchi, wife of the Italian president, and with a bow said: "Thank you for a most enjoyable evening—it was truly wonderful." Then, turning to Gronchi, the American President added, "An to you, for our nice talks."

There were indications that his conversations with Italian leaders before dinner had borne fruit in dealing with cold war topics and Italian-American relations. No details were disclosed but there was

Judge Dubs Men 'Savage' In N.Y. Case

NEW YORK (AP) — A magistrate Friday denounced two Negroes as "savages" in a brutal rape case involving two white girls, and ordered them held without bail for the grand jury.

The Negroes, Dwight Tippins, 25, a towering 6 feet 5 inches formerly of Atlanta, and Willie Walker, 22, about 6 feet, allegedly forced their way into the girls' automobile outside a Brooklyn hospital Thursday night and drove to a lonely spot.

Police said Tippins had raped one girl, a 20-year-old secretary, attempted to rape the other, a 16-year-old schoolgirl, and forced both to commit unnatural acts. They said Walker did not molest either girl.

The names of the girls, described as eminently respectable, were not revealed.

As the two defendants were arraigned before him, Magistrate David Malbin said:

IKE, WILSON VISITS

Atmosphere Seen As Very Different

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

President Eisenhower visits Pope John XXIII Sunday in an atmosphere vastly different from that which prevailed when another American President met another pontiff 40 years ago.

There was an air of almost diplomatic intrigue about the meeting between President Woodrow Wilson and Pope Benedict XV, and a police incident that left Wilson livid with rage.

The time was Jan. 4, 1919. The World War I had ended less than two months before and Wilson was en route to Paris with his 14 Points for peace.

It wasn't easy for a chief of state to visit the Pope in those days.

Diplomatic relations between Italy and the Vatican had been strained since 1870 when the Italians seized Rome from the Pope.

To avoid a diplomatic furor, President Wilson had to depart for the Vatican from the American Embassy rather than Quirinal Palace where he was staying.

The Pope and the President chatted for about 20 minutes. But just what they talked about has remained something of a mystery. No one privy to the conversation bothered to record it.

Some 200,000 people thronged St. Peter's Square and cheered wildly as the President and the Pope sat together near an open window in view of the multitude.

The crowd was the reason for the unpleasant incident.

It has been made known that Wilson would speak to the people. But when it came time for him to leave the Pope, he found that it

Senator Held Aboard Flight As Hostage

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A four-engine airliner hijacked in Brazil's vast pocket air force made a surprise landing at Buenos Aires International Airport Friday.

A Brazilian Embassy source said Maj. Heber Teixeira Pinto, a rebel leader, forced the crew to fly him to Argentina and brought along a Brazilian senator, Remo Archer, as a hostage.

The major possibly had the help of another man, at present unidentified, in taking over the plane, the informant said.

The plane is a Panair do Brasil Constellation seized Thursday by rebels officers on a regular passenger flight from Rio de Janeiro toward Belém, Brazil.

Argentine airport sources reported when it came down that seven Brazilian air force officers seeking asylum and the full crew were aboard.

QUESTIONING

The Brazilian Embassy informant said, however, the Constellation carried only nine persons in all, and six of these were crewmen. Argentine authorities questioned all aboard behind closed doors.

Between 17 and 27 men are believed to have launched the uprising against President Juscelino Kubitschek's Brazilian government.

With an eye on coming elections, they complained that the regime is riddled with graft and communism.

Teen-Ager Confesses To Stabbing

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — A mentally-retarded teen-age confessor Friday he stabbed a church usher to death because a 19-year-old girl wouldn't date him unless he proved he was "bad."

The youth, Robert L. Brown, 17, said the girl and a teen-age companion goaded him into the Sunday day slaying of Mildred Moeller, 41, by calling him a "mama's boy."

Brown said he wanted to show the girl he could "fit into the church." She had told him she wouldn't go out with him unless he proved he was "bad," Brown said.

French Dead
Buried, Some Still Missing

FREJUS, France (AP) — Sad-eyed survivors buried 135 of the dead from the Malpasset Dam disaster Friday and searchers dug into a dirty brown blanket of silt in search for the missing.

Officials of this little Riviera city said there were 199 known dead from Wednesday night's dam break. The massive bank of water roared down the beautiful four-mile long Reyran Valley into the Mediterranean with the wreckage of many homes on its crest.

Among the dead are 53 children. There still were 100 names on the official list of missing but this was being whittled down as some turned up safe.

SERVICES

Nearly 3,000 men and women filled the city square flanking Frejus Hospital for funeral services for the identified dead.

The rough pine caskets were laid out in rows, with a name chalked on each lid.

A troop of Boy Scouts filed silently by and deposited sprays of roses and floral wreaths. Men tugged berets from their heads and shawled women sobbed softly as Bishop Henri Mazerat intoned the ritual of absolution — forgiveness for sins in life.

Behind the bishop, in the hospital, were 40 other caskets of unidentified dead.

Eisenhower will hold longer talks with Segni Saturday.

The President exposed himself to the unruly elements Friday, baring his head twice in the chilling rain that fell during the arrival ceremonies.

This aroused some concern for his health, since he is susceptible to colds, but the White House press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said Eisenhower was suffering no ill effects.

"I asked the President and I asked his doctor," Hagerty said.

The President had over 10 hours of activity in Rome Friday. He got a warm official welcome on his arrival at Ciampino Airport, although the rain curtailed some of the expected cheers and excitement.

Squalls kept the presidential jet plane circling the airport 26 minutes. Then it made a smooth landing—to the relief of Gronchi and other waiting officials.

Voters Face Decisions At Polls In Area

Ouachita and Lincoln parishes are distinct in this area this election year in that their top court-house officials qualified without opposition.

But in parishes like Concordia, Franklin, West Carroll and Winn, parish politics is woodstove politics. Sheriff's campaigns developed special interest in Concordia, Tensas, Franklin and Winn.

Otherwise, voters will cast ballots for assessors and clerks of courts, not to mention the all important Police Jury and less minor offices of constable and Justice of the Peace.

Democratic committeemen will be voted on and the Republican party in Ouachita will have candidates for committee jobs of its own.

In fact, the number of candidates is so voluminous this election year many voters will not down their selections before going to the polls.

FAA Places Age Limit On Airline Pilots

"Existing regulations already provide compulsory retirement for a pilot who cannot meet current standards, whether this occurs at 20, 30, 40, 60 or 65," Sayen said.

Quesada said only about 40 of the 14,000 airline pilots now active would be grounded because of the age limit. But Sayen said the number would be 50 or 60.

In announcing the order, Quesada said there never has been any proof that pilot age was a factor in airline accidents. But because of normal deterioration in functions of the mind and body due to advancing age, he said, the FAA believes it would be hazardous to continue operation to airliners in command of pilots over 60.

The regulation is based on medical facts that clearly establish that sudden incapacitation due primarily to heart attacks and strokes resulting from such defects become significantly more frequent in any group reaching age 60, and such attacks cannot be predicted on an individual basis by prior medical examination," Quesada said.

Sayen denied that sudden incapacitation was predominantly related to age.

"All the FAA has accomplished," he said, "is to deprive competent, healthy pilots of their personal right to practice their profession and earn a living."

The new regulations for copilot training require more training and practice in all phases of flying and call for an annual proficiency check flight. At present the pilot in command checks the copilot during daily operations.

The FAA held up action on another proposed regulation which would restrict command of jet-powered airliners to pilots under 55. Quesada said the FAA wants more information and would hold a public hearing Jan. 7.

The President exposed himself to the unruly elements Friday, baring his head twice in the chilling rain that fell during the arrival ceremonies.

This aroused some concern for his health, since he is susceptible to colds, but the White House press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said Eisenhower was suffering no ill effects.

"I asked the President and I asked his doctor," Hagerty said.

The President had over 10 hours of activity in Rome Friday. He got a warm official welcome on his arrival at Ciampino Airport, although the rain curtailed some of the expected cheers and excitement.

Squalls kept the presidential jet plane circling the airport 26 minutes. Then it made a smooth landing—to the relief of Gronchi and other waiting officials.

Oehsenein said he relied on Addison's oral promise that all addison would become wealthy. The dentist said he was assured of an interest in all Addison projects, including a hotel to be built just west of Denver, Colo., on a table-top mountain and the Moonlight Inn in Nevada.

On cross-examination, the dentist said the note Addison gave him was not due until March 31, 1960, and he had never asked Addison directly for the money.

Oehsenein was the first person to testify in the trial which started Monday. Lawyers say the trial may continue past Christmas.

Earlier, Oehsenein testified that Addison represented to him that his Benson uranium upgrader produced $66,000 a day in marketable ore, upgraded uranium at a proportion of 7 to 1, could produce 8 times as much as the now in operation in the country.

He said Addison valued each of those mills at $18 million dollars and said his upgrader was ever more valuable because it was mobile, could be operated with less men and produced more.

He testified that Addison represented that he had a commitment from the Atomic Energy Commission for ore produced from the upgrader. He said he entered the transaction after he was shown motion picture slides and photographs of the Moonlight Mine in Nevada.

Addison and some of his followers have uranium holdings in Colorado, Utah, New Mexico, and Arizona. Most of the claims and leases are said to contain low-grade, unprofitable ore. But Addison says his "Benson upgrader" produces high grade ore from the low-grade mine productions.

Oehsenein at first evaded direct answers but later conceded on cross-examination that the affidavits he had signed were false.

The documents stated the dentist received promises that Addison would repay nothing beyond the loan plus 10 per cent interest, and Oehsenein was due no interest in any of Addison's uranium enterprises.

Oehsenein testified that although he swore to reading the documents entirely before signing his name at 47 points, one of Addison's aides rifled through the 18 to 20 regular uranium mills monkey or damage any of the instruments inside.

They thought it best to have a doctor standing by when they opened the chamber—but the nearest doctor was aboard the Ft. Mandan, a Navy landing ship dock, home to close by. He was Air Force Capt. Don Geisler, a veterinarian.

For more than an hour, the Borie's crew tried to swing the 100-pound container, monkey and all, to the Ft. Mandan. But seas were running high and they had to give up.

The chamber was carried to the destroyer's sick bay and—with Capt. Geisler giving instructions via radio—the Borie's sailors carefully opened it. Other advice was radioed to the Borie from Wallops Island.

It took 30 minutes to do this, and by that time Sam had been strapped in his three-foot-long chamber for more than six hours. He was in no danger of suffocating because he had a 40-hour supply of oxygen with him.

Word was flashed to the destroyer to Wallops Island and Dale Smith, veterinarian for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, relayed the information here that Sam apparently had come through in fine shape.

As Smith put it, Sam was "alive and kicking," seemed perfectly alert, entirely normal and showed no adverse effect.

NASA said Sam would spend the night in the Borie's sick bay.

For dinner Friday night, he was given half an apple, half an orange and a cup of water.

The Borie headed for Norfolk, Va., where it was due at 7 a.m. Saturday.

From Norfolk, Sam will be flown to the School of Aviation Medicine—from which his name was drawn—at Brooks Air Force Base in Texas.

At the school, specialists will study the monkey to gauge the longer-range effects of his rocket flight.

The chief aim of the experiment was to try out at high altitude a special rocket designed to enable a future astronaut to separate the capsule from the booster if an emergency developed on a journey into space.

NASA officials reported the escape rocket worked perfectly.

Steel Union, Industry To Meet Today

The wish was expressed in Eisenhower's predeparture broadcast to the nation Thursday night in which he sharply rapped the steel disputants for letting the threat of a renewed strike depress America's economy.

The nation's half million Steelworkers can walk out again after the current Taft-Hartley law injunction expires Jan. 26.

Cooper, commenting on Eisenhower's call for round-the-clock talks, said, "Continuous hours of meetings do not necessarily mean effective collective bargaining." He said experience shows work-wear negotiators often come up with unfortunate solutions to key issues.

Although he said management negotiators are willing to meet at any hour or place that talks would seem fruitful, Cooper said the important thing in the current situation is that it not result in touching off a new round of inflation.

Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation Service who is presiding over the current negotiations, said labor peace is not always fostered by formal meetings and said he planned to schedule sessions as they seemed most productive.

David J. McDonald, the union's president, was absent from Friday's union meeting with Finnegan. Two of Cooper's associates also stayed away from the industry's separate session with mediators. Aides said all the absences were occupied with other business.

alone, 38 men are seeking House posts while 25 candidates are running for the Senate.

Ouachita and Lincoln parishes are distinct in this area this election year in that their top court house officials qualified without opposition.

But in parishes like Concordia, Franklin, West Carroll and Winn, parish politics is woodstove hot. Sheriff's campaigns developed special interest in Concordia, Tensas, Franklin and Winn.

Otherwise, voters will cast ballots for assessors and clerks of courts, not to mention the all important Police Jury and less minor offices of constable and Justice of the Peace.

Democratic committeemen will be voted on and the Republican party in Ouachita will have candidates for committee jobs of its own.

In fact, the number of candidates is so voluminous this election year many voters will jolt down their selections before going to the polls.

FAA Places Age Limit On Airline Pilots

months and is tested for proficiency at least twice a year. There is no age limit.

Existing regulations already provide compulsory retirement for a pilot who cannot meet current standards, whether this occurs at 20, 30, 45, 60 or 65," Sayen said.

Quesada said only about 40 of the 14,000 airline pilots now active would be grounded because of the age limit. But Sayen said the number would be 50 or 60.

In announcing the order, Quesada said there never has been any proof that pilot age was a factor in airline accidents. But because of normal deterioration in functions of the mind and body due to advancing age, he said, the FAA believes it would be hazardous to safe operation to leave airliners in command of pilots over 60.

The regulation is based on medical facts that clearly establish that sudden incapacitation due primarily to heart attacks and strokes resulting from such defects become significantly more frequent in any group reaching age 60, and such attacks cannot be predicted on an individual basis by prior medical examinations," Quesada said.

Sayen denied that sudden incapacitation was predominantly related to age.

"All the FAA has accomplished," he said, "is to deprive competent, healthy pilots of their personal right to practice their profession and earn a living."

The new regulations for copilot training require more training and practice in all phases of flying and call for an annual proficiency check flight. At present the pilot in command checks the copilot during daily operations.

The FAA held up action on another proposed regulation which would restrict command of jet-powered airliners to pilots under 55. Quesada said the FAA wants more information and would hold a public hearing Jan. 7.

Taft Defeat Assessed

Blame for his failure to win the Republican nomination for president in 1952 was placed by the late Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) at the door of New York financial circles. This was disclosed in the release of a hitherto secret memorandum.

This opinion differed from the generally-accepted viewpoint that the long-thwarted Republicans nominated General Dwight D. Eisenhower because of his great personal popularity, his record as a general, his stature in public opinion and because they believed he could defeat the Democratic nominee. They were doubtful that Senator Taft could do that.

There is no way of making an absolute assessment of the merits of the varied opinions but Senator Taft's summation of his opinion of the situation does not necessarily change the value of the more general appraisal.

Senator Taft's memorandum, which was dictated less than a year before he died of cancer July 31, 1953, heretofore had been revealed only to members of his family and to the senator's closest lieutenants and had been held by them in confidence.

The memorandum, according to a story carried by the Washington Evening Star, has become the subject of discussion in some Republican circles because of a prospective battle between Vice-President Richard Nixon and Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York for the Republican presidential nomination next year.

There seems little reason for such a statement, but the Washington story commented that, "In some respects Mr. Nixon's position at this time is regarded as somewhat similar to that of Senator Taft at a comparable period before the 1952 convention."

The comparison seems to be without much basis for the simple reason that, in 1952, General Eisenhower could undoubtedly have been nominated by either the Republican or the Democratic party and could have been elected as the standard-bearer of either party. He chose the Republican party, when the Democratic party was riding on a high crest and his reason for doing so must have been that he was more nearly in accord with the Republicans' fairly conservative views than with the Democrats' generally leftist or socialist views.

General Eisenhower was definitely the man of the hour and there is no doubt that he could have defeated any man the Democrats could have offered against him, although former President Harry Truman probably could have run a better race against him than any one else.

The situation concerning Mr. Nixon and Mr. Rockefeller is far different.

Practically all of the party prestige is behind the man who has held the vice-presidency twice and who has demonstrated considerable ability in international affairs.

Mr. Rockefeller has had the endorsement of Walter Reuther, high boss in the American Federal of Labor - Congress of Industrial Organizations. Mr. Reuther stated Mr. Rockefeller was a "good Democrat."

Mitigating Factors

Japanese law differs from United States laws in one strange phase and because it does two Japanese who killed a merciful American missionary in a savage karate attack may escape punishment. In Japan, drunkenness is a mitigating factor, whereas, in the United States a person is held fully accountable for all the acts he may commit while drunk.

Dr. Charles E. Perry, the American missionary, who was killed in Tokyo with brutal "rabbit punches", could only return good for evil with his dying breath.

In the brief hour between the drunken attack and his death, the 51-year-old teacher from Canton, N.Y., gasped to police a Christian testament: "Forgive them. It is enough if they only repent." Police and some of Dr. Perry's colleagues told his last words for the record.

Police did not share Dr. Perry's view of forgiveness. Authorities held Setsuji Morita, 20, and Teruo Yokoyama, 19, on charges similar to manslaughter in the United States.

Dr. Perry was attacked when he intervened after a group of students had caused a disturbance. Morita was named as his actual assailant. He is an expert in karate, an ancient form of hand-fighting in Japan and Okinawa.

Practitioners so toughen their hands that they can shatter wooden planks with the edge of the hand opposite from the thumb.

When police arrived after the attack, Dr. Perry, who suffered a cerebral hemorrhage, was able to tell what had happened and to urge mercy.

Japan is sometimes known as a drunkard's paradise. Drunkenness is a legally mitigating factor. In some similar cases it has been sufficient to absolve persons from blame.

In the United States, drunkenness is not an excuse for crime nor a mitigating factor. A drunk person is as much legally responsible for the crimes he may commit as a sober person and, furthermore, he may receive an additional penalty for being drunk when the offense occurs. For instance, if he is responsible for an automobile accident, he may be charged both with causing an accident and driving while intoxicated.

Regardless of your choice, VOTE; vote EARLY; and BE PREPARED with your list when you enter the polling place.

With hotly contested races and a long ballot, many polling places are certain to be crowded today.

That is all the more reason to VOTE EARLY.

It also is all the more reason to BE PREPARED when you sit down before the voting machine—to know how you intend to vote.

The best way to be prepared is to have a list of the voting machine numbers of the candidates for whom you wish to vote—spotting the numbers in each race is easy. Get a sample ballot and write down the numbers on a piece of paper and turn the levers opposite those numbers—it is simple as that.

For those who agree with the recommendations of The World and News-Star we again present our endorsements—accompanied by the voting machine number of each recommended candidate—in the order in which the offices at stake appear on the machines:

Pick Best-Dressed Women

Most Folks Must Wonder How 12 Are Chosen; Exciting Excursion Taken Into Female Affairs

Best Dressed Women

I suppose that most folks wonder how the twelve best dressed women in the world are selected. Each year such a list appears and some are very happy but there must be many broken hearts as well as emptied purses. Being curious about such matters myself, particularly as I think that I was once described as one of the worst dressed men, I got hold of a ballot.

It was an exciting excursion into female affairs, for only women could organize so elaborate an institution. The entire enterprise is conducted by the New York

Couture Group of which the charming Eleanor Lambert is the press director and probably the whole works. It appears that more than 2,000 "qualified observers of contemporary fashion" voted for a dozen of the best dressed women.

The list consists of 37 dressmakers and designers who make some of the clothes that some of the women wear. The women look expensive to me but then I know nothing about women's clothes except that they often cover the female body inadequately and vary so widely that no mere man can draw too much of a conclusion about them. It must be a gay competition for these girls to see which ones come out on top. The list of those "cited by fashion authorities as women of distinguished taste" is very long and contains many names not only unknown to me but surely to most folks. There are some very young ones on the list and some very, very old ones. Far be it from me to suggest that any of them are not beautifully gowned but it would be hard to judge. My eye falls on one from Edinburgh and another from London and there are some from every large city in the United States. Altogether this list contains 152 names which is a lot to choose from.

I am indeed fortunate for two or three of the women are among my great favorites and I should vote for them for anything from president of a P.T.A. to vice-president of the United States.

As to what they wear, I really could not say. I can describe their faces, the beauty of their eyes, the glory of their hair—but not the color which is interchangeable. I can repeat the brilliance of their conversation but clothes, I am sure, are little more than a covering for bodies worn by unnecessary exercise and excessive dieting to get into the contractions in which they move about with difficulty.

I once accused a dress designer of belonging to a craft that professedly hated women because it put them into such ridiculous clothing. He denied the allegation and looked at me with contempt.

Now, the patient is convinced that overbreathing is the cause of his symptoms. He is taught to control his apparently unimportant habit of frequent sighing, sniffling, yawning or coughing.

He is also treated for his underlying tensions. Within a few weeks—sometimes longer—he is amazed that his "awful symptoms" have disappeared.

Therefore, Mr. L. Y., I suggest that you ask your doctor, if, by nervous breathing, he means that you have hyperventilation syndrome. If so, you can forget about your heart. He will show you how to overcome your "over-breathing" habit.

The medical term for it is hyperventilation syndrome. I have observed it in hundreds of patients. Without realizing it, they over-breathe.

Sometimes they do so by frequent sighing and yawning. This may occur while they are doing routine things like shopping, wiping dishes, working in the office, or playing bridge.

They are tense and don't realize it. Many people overbreathe when thrust into an unhappy situation; while others, instead, reach for a cigarette or a chocolate bar.

You are fortunate, Mr. L. Y., that your only complaint is shortness of breath. I am assuming, of course, that what you have is hyperventilation. Patients with this syndrome usually have many other complaints.

Among them: Dizziness, light-headedness, fainting, numbness and tingling of the hands, feet or face—and an overwhelming anxiety that is frightening. The heart pounds, they perspire and often think "something terrible is about to happen."

There is a reason for these symptoms. When you overbreathe there is a loss of carbon dioxide which causes a temporary increased alkalinity of the blood. With a low carbon dioxide tension in the blood, oxygen is not given up readily to the body tissues. This affects sensitive tissues like the brain. Result: the symptoms I have mentioned.

Before we can treat this hyperventilation syndrome, we must first be on the lookout for it, and recognize it. The next step is to convince the patient that his symptoms are of his own making.

Usually I ask such a patient, apparently symptomless at the time, to breathe rapidly and as deeply as he can for a minute or two. Most often he will stop in the midst of such breathing and say: "Doctor, my hands feel numb, my feet feel tingly, I feel

BASCOM TIMMONS

Decision On Castro

Nation Must Make Up Mind Soon

After Return Of Eisenhower

There no longer seems much doubt that when President Eisenhower returns here from his long ceremonial trip just before Christmas time this country will have to decide what it is going to do about Fidel Castro, more important than that this country will have to decide what it is going to do about communism in Cuba.

There is a view held by some of our ablest diplomats that Cuba is already a Communist nation and that if Castro were tossed out his successor would be a Communist. Moreover he might be an able Communist than the bungling Castro. Opposed to that is a view held by some there are real patriots in Cuba who will rise and overthrow Castro.

There are opposing views as to what we ought to do about Cuba. One seems to be modeled after the old "let the dust settle in Asia" solution for the Far East, advanced a decade ago. It would let things rock along on the theory that eventually Castro will run out of steam and his foolish policies and tactics backfire. That theory overlooks the evidence that Moscow is pulling the strings and if Castro went another Kremlin stooge would replace him.

The other view is put forward by Dr. Emilio Nunez Portuondo, former United Nations Security Council President and a Cuban who is highly respected in this country and throughout the world. Dr. Portuondo recommends that the United States lead a movement by the Organization of American States and by the United Nations for the replacement of the Communist-dominated Castro regime.

Otherwise, Dr. Portuondo thinks within six or eight months other Latin American nations will follow the Castro example and confiscate all American property. The State Department fully recognizes that such land grabbing can become contagious and that it can become outright stealing as in Cuba. There is strong agitation for seizure of American property in Brazil, Argentina, Guatemala, Venezuela and Panama. It could in some cases become the policies of the present government, in others existing governments could be overthrown by seizure juntas.

Dr. Portuondo believes that an

OAS declaration, under United States leadership, that the existing Cuban government represents an international communist regime threatening all Latin American nations, is called for, and would be the most decisive action that could be taken. The Caracas Declaration, adopted by the 10th International American Conference in 1954 recognized that a Communist regime in any country of the Americas constituted a grave peril to the internal security of the whole continent.

What happens if the United States stands by and lets Castroism spread through Latin America? It is very evident that the countries south of the Rio Grande cannot fight alone against the massive infiltration of international communism and that the United States must take the lead as their defender which the Monroe Doctrine envisioned.

There seems little doubt that Communist leaders from all over the world have become residents of Havana. There are among them Russians, Chinese, Hungarians, Poles and Hungarians. Moreover the Cuban embassies throughout Latin America are the rallying places of international communism.

The United States is moving cautiously in Cuba. Some of our Latin American friends think we are moving far too cautiously. Some like Dr. Portuondo think that Latin America has become a greater danger to the security of the United States than Berlin, Formosa or any of the other crisis points; that the establishment of Russian missile bases within 90 miles of our shores could happen.

Every proposal for action of any sort in Cuba meets an objection. We, of course, surrendered our right under the Platt amendment which was also written into the Cuban constitution, to intervene. That was done under the good neighbor policy of the Roosevelt administration in 1933. Moreover there is an objection that if we did directly intervene it would vastly please the Russian overseas communists apparatus which could then set up a din to offset the world outrage at the Russian and Chinese Communists in Hungary, Tibet and elsewhere.

Marshall Plan End

Nation Comes To Realization Outward Flow Of Gold Must Halt

In 1950 the era of the Marshall Plan—the American foreign aid program which stands in history as the symbol of the greatest generosity a single nation ever has displayed toward its competitive friends and former enemies—came to an end.

In 1959, policy-makers in government, industry and labor publicly acknowledged that, as a result of our spending far more overseas than we have been taking in from other lands, gold has been flowing out on a substantial scale, the dollar's prestige has been seriously questioned and an indefinite continuation of the trends cannot be tolerated.

In 1959, therefore, a historic turning point was reached in our trade relations with industrial Europe and Japan.

To grasp the full extent of the change, you must go back to the end of global war in 1946. At that time our country was the overwhelming power in the world trade markets. Nearly all other economies were ruined or absolute. In our vaults we held most of the world's gold reserves.

To get other nations back on their economic feet, we began pouring billions in gifts and grants into rebuilding their plants and factories. We willingly exported our know-how and managerial skills. We encouraged private capital and tourists to go abroad and spend freely. We turned the other way as our sick competitors raised towering barriers against imports of our goods to protect their own weak industries.

Year after year the economics of our competitors have been reviving, and in 1958 the full extent of the competitive comeback burst upon us. Last year the total of the funds we sent abroad topped the total of our receipts by $3.4 billion. A full $2.3 billion, or 10 per cent of our gold reserves, moved into the vaults of other nations. This year the gap between our outgo and income has been even bigger—$4 billion. The drain on our gold has continued.

Now we are acting to regain our trade balance in the world. (1) The U. S. has just adopted as formal policy a "Buy American" requirement for certain foreign aid. Under the policy poorer nations getting U. S. funds must spend the cash in our country for our goods. While the move has aroused sharp protests that it is a step backward to restriction and protectionism, Secretary of State Herter has indicated that "spend it here!" will be extended if the gold outflow persists.

(2) The United States has demanded and is getting from European nations and Japan a decisive liberalization of their restrictions against our goods. The new cycle in our foreign economic policies which opened in 1959 will become firmly established in 1960. Actually, this turning point may rank as one of the great economic-financial events of the next decade as well as one of the top stories of this year.

It was an exciting excursion into female affairs, for only women could organize so elaborate an institution. The entire enterprise is conducted by the New York

Couture Group of which the charming Eleazar Lambert is the press director and probably the whole works. It appears that more than 2,000 "qualified observers of contemporary fashion" vote for a dozen of the best dressed women.

Inc., consists of 37 dressmakers. The New York Couture Group, and designers who make some of the clothes that some of the women wear. The women look expensive to me but then I know nothing about women's clothes except that they often cover the female body inadequately and vary so widely that no mere man can draw too much of a conclusion about them. It must be a gay competition for these girls to see which ones come out on top.

The list of those "cited by fashion authorities as women of distinguished taste" is very long and contains many names not only unknown to me but surely to most folks. There are some very young ones on the list and some very old ones. Far be it from me to suggest that any of them are not beautifully gowned but it would be hard to judge. My eye falls on one from Edinburgh and another from London and there are some from every large city in the United States. Altogether this list contains 152 names which is a lot to choose from.

I am indeed fortunate for two or three of the women are among my great favorites and I should vote for them for anything from president of a P.T.A. to vice president of the United States.

As to what they wear, I really could not say. I can describe their faces, the beauty of their eyes, the glory of their hair—but not the color which is interchangeable. I can repeat the brilliance of their conversation but clothes, I am sure, are little more than a covering for bodies worn by unnecessary exercise and excessive dieting to get into the contractions in which they move about with difficulty.

I once accused a dress designer of belonging to a craft that professionally hated women because it put them into such ridiculous clothing. He denied the allegation and looked at me with contempt.

He is also treated for his underlying tensions. Within a few weeks—sometimes longer—he is amazed that his "awful symptoms" have disappeared.

Therefore, Mr. L. Y., I suggest that you ask your doctor if, by nervous breathing, he means that you have hyperventilation syndrome. If so, you can forget about your heart. He will show you how to overcome your "overbreathing" habit.

Daily Devotional

The assembly was confused; and the more part knew not wherefore they were come together. — Acts 19:32.

The silversmith, Demetrius, was losing his income along with many others who wrought images of the goddess Diana for sale in the temple, because Paul had proclaimed "they be no gods which are made with hands."

There was no formal "union" or organization of the silversmiths, but a hurried meeting was called and many people rushed into the theatre, crying, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians!" Now, as then, it is easy to participate in a demonstration or sign a petition without knowing all the facts.

God, our Father, help us to be careful as to the things we endorse and promote, unless they be Thy work. In Christ's name we pray. Amen.

Among them: Dizziness, light-headedness, fainting, numbness and tingling of the hands, feet or face—and an overwhelming anxiety that is frightening. The heart pounds, they perspire and often think "something terrible is about to happen."

There is a reason for these symptoms. When you overbreathe there is a loss of carbon dioxide which causes a temporary increased alkalinity of the blood.

With a low carbon dioxide tension in the blood, oxygen is not given up readily to the body tissues. This affects sensitive tissues like the brain. Result: the symptoms I have mentioned.

Before we can treat this hyperventilation syndrome, we must first be on the lookout for it, and recognize it. The next step is to convince the patient that his symptoms are of his own making.

Usually I ask such a patient, apparently symptomless at the time, to breathe rapidly and as deeply as he can for a minute or two. Most often he will stop in the midst of such breathing and say: "Doctor, my hands feel numb, my feet feel tingly, I feel

Nation Must Make Up Mind Soon

After Return Of Eisenhower

OAS declaration, under United States leadership, that the existing Cuban government represents an international communist regime threatening all Latin American nations, is called for, and would be the most decisive action that could be taken. The Caracas Declaration, adopted by the 10th International American Conference in 1954, recognized that a Communist regime in any country of the Americas constituted a grave peril to the internal security of the whole continent.

There is a view held by some of our ablest diplomats that Cuba is already a Communist nation and that if Castro were tossed out his successor would be a Communist. Moreover he might be an able Communist than the bungling Castro. Opposed to that is a view there are real patriots in Cuba who will rise and overthrow Castro.

There are opposing views as to what we ought to do about Cuba. One seems to be modeled after the old "let the dust settle in Asia" solution for the Far East, advanced a decade ago. It would let things rock along on the theory that eventually Castro will run out of steam and his foolish policies and tactics backfire. That theory overlooks the evidence that Moscow is pulling the string and if Castro went another Kremlin stooge would replace him.

The other view is put forward by Dr. Emilio Nunez Portuondo, former United Nations Security Council President and a Cuban who is highly respected in this country and throughout the world. Dr. Portuondo recommends that the United States lead a movement by the Organization of American States for the replacement of the Communist-dominated Castro regime.

Otherwise, Dr. Portuondo thinks within six or eight months other Latin American nations will follow the Castro example and conspire all American property. The State Department fully recognizes that such land grabbing can become contagious and that it can become outright stealing as in Cuba. There is strong agitation for seizure of American property in Brazil, Argentina, Guatemala, Venezuela and Panama. It could in some cases become the policies of the present government, in others existing governments could be overthrown by seizure juntas.

Dr. Portuondo believes that an

Marshall Plan End

Nation Comes To Realization Outward

Flow Of Gold Must Halt

In 1959 the era of the Marshall Plan—the American foreign aid program which stands in history as the symbol of the greatest generosity a single nation ever displayed toward its competitive friends and former enemies—came to an end.

In 1959, policy-makers in government, industry and labor publicly acknowledged that, as a result of our spending far more overseas than we have been taking in from other lands, gold has been flowing out on a substantial scale, the dollar's prestige has been seriously questioned and an indefinite continuation of the trends cannot be tolerated.

In 1959, therefore, a historic turning point was reached in our trade relations with industrial Europe and Japan.

To grasp the full extent of the change, you must go back to the end of global war in 1945. At that time our country was the overwhelming power in the world trade markets. Nearly all other economies were ruined or absent.

And yet, as one goes back into the history of clothing, there have been periods when man was the peacock and women clothed themselves with a degree of sanity. The French revolution put an end to men wearing ostrich feathers and fanciful colored doublets and hose. They moved into sober black and let their trousers fall long and they got rid of silver buckles and lace cuffs.

The girls took over and have for a few centuries really gone wild in design, fabric and color until now one might really say that the dressmakers control the lives of women. There is, however, a democracy in this country. It does not take long for the department stores to show the exclusive designs to the hourly wage workers and in a little longer time, the dresses find their way to the outlet shops and everybody—but everybody—is wearing them. Exclusiveness is not for the era just as aristocracy has died nearly everywhere and most fashions have been made illegitimate by revolution.

Indeed so democratic is this age that a Queen appears on a list with former models, something that could not have happened either in the 18th or 19th centuries. In fact, it would be fascinating to make a sociological study, to say nothing of a psychological analysis, of this list of 152 ladies and women—using a 19th century distinction—to find whether the most gorgeously clothed woman is, indeed, the most beautiful.

And what does it really matter if she wears hardly anything, as Brigitte Bardot has established.

Top Demos Heading For Big Kickoff

NEW YORK (UPI)—Seven top Democrats, each a possible presidential nominee, headed into town Friday for the kickoff of the party's 1960 campaign.

All seven—plus former President Harry S. Truman—will finalize this weekend and then appear on the same platform Monday in the party's biggest talent gathering since 1956 and the last before the Los Angeles convention next summer.

The occasion was a conference of the Democratic Advisory Council which will set 1960 policy for the Democratic National Committee. The meetings will be topped off Monday night with a $100-a-plate dinner tribute to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The lineup was impressive. It included: Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, New Jersey Gov. Robert B. Meyner, Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, and Adlai Stevenson, two-time Democratic candidate and again as possible nominee.

Notably missing was one top presidential possibility, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas. Johnson and his ardent supporter, House Leader Sam Rayburn, were listed as dinner sponsors but will not be present.

A highlight of the meeting will be the issuance Sunday of a "State of the Union" declaration from the Democratic policy makers.

Presiding at the sessions will be Paul M. Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee. Others to speak at the dinner for Mrs. Roosevelt at the Waldorf-Astoria Monday night included Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida, former Govs. Herbert H. Lehman and Averell Harriman of New York; former Air Force Secretary Thomas K. Finletter; former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, and Truman.

Businessman Here Recalls Long Career

Still recalling clearly his coming to Monroe from Farmerville on the steamboat "Belle of D'Arbonne" in 1884 Joe E. Marx, Sr., began his first year of business here this week.

Interviewed in his office at Southern Hardware Co., Ltd., 108 Walnut in Monroe, Marx said he believed he was one of the longest term workers in the Twin Cities. He traced his career briefly from the time he used to light the kerosene lamp and sweep the floor in his first job on South Grand Street.

RIVER BOAT DAYS

He related the Southern Hardware Co. got its start in 1900 at what is now 101 South Grand. "That wasn't much of a street then. The hardware stores and warehouses were on the east side of the street facing the busy dock area on the Ouachita, which was a busy commerce route in those days," Marx said.

The business moved to its present location in 1921. Marx noted many changes in Monroe places of business and in people "coming and going." But he emphasized many of the same lines of merchandise were still being carried which were familiar to him when he came to work here. He also said a number of accounts of day were still among today's customers, "reaching into businesses two and three generations old."

Pointing to economic changes during his lengthy tour of duty, Marx said the dollar had reached a greater measure of inflation now than ever before. He noted one period of inflation during the late 1920's just prior to the depression. "That was when any man in business over 45 years old was considered too old to keep up with the times," Marx recalled. "After the depression hit, they looked us up again to get things back in line," the old timer in Monroe business circles jocosely related.

President of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce in 1957, Marx pointed with pride at a picture in the organization's yearbook. "I've made a rule to stay active in business and inactive in politics and it has served me well," he said.

When he considered retiring several years ago, Marx said his doctor told him it would do more harm than good to interrupt a life which had been so active. "Yes, I am interested in living a few years longer; I want to see what finally will happen to Khrushchev," he quipped.

Holding a position rather like an elder statesman in Monroe business circles, Marx keeps abreast of current trends and compares them with former days. "Back in 1915, we'd have a run on stove pipes this time of year. Now, hardware for new houses is a fast moving item," he said. He said he was happy to make an occasion over his completion of 60 years in business because, "I don't believe I'll work for that long a stretch a second time."

CURFEW CASH
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Paying at the rate of a penny a minute, women students at Ohio State University stayed out a total of almost 512 hours beyond curfew one night recently.

They were allowed to do so—for one night—if they were willing to pay the penny a minute price. Dormitories netted $307.14 from the venture.

Soviets Start Do-Or-Die Labor Program

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Dr. Nicholas Dewitt, authority on Russian science work, said Friday the Soviets are starting a do-or-die program to educate the labor force to perpetuate industrial and technical progress.

Dewitt, associate at the Russian Research Center of Harvard University, spoke to the southwest regional meeting of the American Chemical Society.

"Their main objective," he said, "is to offer functional education so as to train, to mould, to develop the skills, the professions and the specialists required by their long-range development programs—who are capable of performing the tasks of running the industrial and bureaucratic machinery of the communist state."

The Russians, he said, will be training an army of scientists and technologists to accomplish their aim.

The southwest regional award of the ACS went to Dr. Paul Delahay, Louisiana State University professor once cited as one of the nation's outstanding young scientists.

Bobby Darin Appears During Payola Probe

NEW YORK (UPI) — Singer Bobby Darin, whose high-powered vocalizing on "Mack the Knife" brought him quick fame, appeared briefly Friday in Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank Hogan's "payola" investigation.

Sources said that Darin had been questioned about his appearances on disc jockey Alan Freed's radio and TV shows.

Darin declined comment on the line of questioning, although ad-denied to newsmen that she had admitted it concerned the record business.

Freed, a pioneer exponent of rock 'n' roll, recently was fired by the American Broadcasting Co. for refusing to sign a statement that he had never taken payola for plugging certain records or singers. He later parted company from New York TV station WNEW "by mutual consent."

Broadway singer Eileen Rogers also stopped in at Hogan's office. Miss Rogers said she had been questioned about checks in connection with the Freed shows. She

This was the beginning. Soon he walked through massive concrete walls, huge steel vault doors, electrified fences. There were no barriers.

Then the full impact of the incredible 4TH DIMENSION possessed him, and the lust for power began to prevail over reason and discovery. Human tissue disintegrated at his touch.

Now he faced the woman he loved, yearning for her. But did he dare touch her?

Mississippi Sheriff Is Near Death

CORINTH, Miss. (AP) — George Rutherford Jr., 39-year-old Prentiss County sheriff whose stormy career survived liquor battles with citizens, the courts and Gov. J. P. Coleman lay near death Friday night as a result of traffic injuries.

Rutherford's family was called to his bedside after physicians reported his condition was "as bad as can be."

Rutherford received serious injuries in a pre-dawn drive with a 28-year-old Memphis woman on Nov. 28. Their car collided head-on with a truck in a collision officers declined to discuss.

Rutherford's wife remained at his bedside most of the week as he lay in critical condition in Community Hospital. He took a turn for the worse Friday after some improvement and began bleeding internally.

His companion, Mrs. Bobby Bryan, improved somewhat but remained in serious condition at the same hospital.

The highway patrol and the Alcorn County sheriff's office reported no charges had been filed in the accident.

The highway patrol said the collision occurred in the truck's lane but that no details could be released because they were the opinion of the investigators and were not public record.

The truck driver, Leon McBride, 28, of Jackson, Tenn., received minor injuries.

Rutherford, who was accused by Coleman of being weak and timid in handling bootleggers, survived a publicized ouster attempt this year. He had accused Coleman of being a dictator when the governor reinstated signatures on an ouster petition and ordered a recall election.

Police reported that Mrs. Patrick said she found her husband in a room with another woman in the early morning hours Friday and that in an ensuing tussle over a gun, Patrick was wounded in the kidney.

Men Giving
Money To Poor
In Atlanta Area

ATLANTA (UPI) — Scores of Negro families in two large southern cities received unexpected Christmas windfalls Friday—gifts of crisp new $50 bills from an anonymous donor.

Two men, a white man and a Negro, made the rounds of residences poor Negro districts in Birmingham and Atlanta handing out dozens of fifties to speechless but grateful residents.

Pearl Jackson, 51, was sitting in her $4 a week apartment wondering where she would get the money to buy some coal. She wouldn't answer the knock at the door, fearing it was a bill collector.

Then she saw a white envelope. She opened it and found two $50 bills.

In several cases the men distributed the money in envelopes tucked under doors, and in others they asked how many members were in the family and peeled off at least two fifties.

One recipient was wished a "merry Christmas." Another was told to use the money to "best advantage."

Efforts to learn the identity of the men failed. Apparently they were the same pair. They began handing out money in Birmingham about 5 a.m. and worked for three hours. They arrived in Atlanta shortly before noon.

There were reports, not immediately confirmed, that the mysterious benefactor was a Baltimore, Md., man who inherited a large sum of money recently and vowed to give it away.

THEY WON'T LET HER JUMP — A 25-year-old Omaha divorcee and mother of four who screamed she wanted to leap into the Missouri River because her husband had left her, was kept from death early yesterday by truck driver
Jerry Stevens and policeman James Bober. Stevens went up after the woman after stopping his truck when he saw her start to climb and held her until Bober climbed up and secured the woman to the girder of the downtown bridge with handcuffs. Firemen from a ladder crew finally brought her down.

This is a fight to curb Louisiana's disastrous financial policies . . . this is a fight to preserve States' Rights . . . a fight to protect the individual rights of the laboring man . . . this is a fight to return Home Rule to our towns and Parishes . . . but even more than that, THIS IS A CRUSADE FOR OUR CHILDREN! We CANNOT . . . We MUST NOT leave them a heritage of integration to struggle against! We MUST do for them what they cannot do for themselves. Willie Rainach has led this fight for us when those in a position to lead . . . whose DUTY it was to lead . . . refused because it might hurt them politically. Only ONE candidate has the determination, the will and the ability to turn back Northern Radicals and the NAACP. For the sake of our children, we MUST elect Willie Rainach governor!

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Southern Bell Telephone Co. began Friday refunding to subscribers more than nine million dollars in overruled rate increases for the past 38 months.

The first checks went out to the Clarkdale area.

A company spokesman said the checks were prepared in the company's Atlanta, Ga., office and sent to Jackson for signing and mailing. He estimated all checks would be mailed within 90 days.

Amounts of the checks range from a few cents to several hundred dollars, depending upon how much and how long the rate increases were in effect.

The Public Service Commission rejected, and was upheld by the state Supreme Court, Southern Bell's increase on grounds the old rates were sufficient.

The company was ordered to return to the 1956 rates and refund the difference in cash.

Some subscribers are being back billed because their rates were reduced under the new rate schedule.

Commission Chairman Norman Johnson said he believes back billing may be illegal.

The first football game involving Ivy League teams dates back to 1872 when Yale met Columbia.

Columbia center Bob McCool rates as the most versatile athlete in the Ivy League. He has won letters in football, rowing, ice hockey, track and baseball at Boston Latin.

TOGETHERNESS CONTINUES
TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Togetherness is the word for sometime grave diggers Len Bancroft, 29, and Emery Sopko, 33. First, they were cellmates at Ohio Penitentiary where Bancroft was in for grand larceny and Sopko was in for armed robbery.

Released a few months apart, they both got jobs as grave diggers at Calvary Cemetery here. Recently they were put behind bars again on charges of the armed robbery of a beer carry-out.

Penn State is playing its 73rd football season.

Men Giving
Money To Poor
In Atlanta Area

ATLANTA (UPI) — Scores of Negro families in two large southern cities received unexpected Christmas windfalls Friday—gifts of crisp new $50 bills from an anonymous donor.

Two men, a white man and a Negro, made the rounds of residences in poor Negro districts in Birmingham and Atlanta handing out dozens of fifties to speechless but grateful residents.

Pearl Jackson, 51, was sitting in her $4 a week apartment wondering where she would get the money to buy some coal. She wouldn't answer the knock at the door, fearing it was a bill collector.

Then she saw a white envelope. She opened it and found two $50 bills.

In several cases the men distributed the money in envelopes tucked under doors, and in others they asked how many members were in the family and peeled off at least two fifties.

One recipient was wished a "merry Christmas." Another was told to use the money to "best advantage."

Efforts to learn the identity of the men failed. Apparently they were the same pair. They began handing out money in Birmingham about 5 a.m. and worked for three hours. They arrived in Atlanta shortly before noon.

There were reports, not immediately confirmed, that the mysterious benefactor was a Baltimore, Md., man who inherited a large sum of money recently and vowed to give it away.

FTC Accuses 9 Companies Of Deception

ability to suppress competition and snag business unfairly from competitors in violation of the FTC Act.

The three record-makers named in the complaints are: Radio Corp. of America, New York City; London Records, Inc., New York City, and Bernard Lowe Enterprises, Inc., Philadelphia.

The distributors are: Edward S. Barsky, Inc., Chips Distributing Co., Inc., David Rosen, Inc., Universal Record Distributing Corp., and Sparks Music Distributors, Inc., all of Philadelphia, and Main Line Cleveland, Inc., Cleveland, Ohio.

The FTC said disc jockeys who received under-the-table payments played the same records as often as six to ten times a day. It reported that this substantially boosted the sales of these records and gave them an advantage in popularity polls.

The companies have 30 days in which to answer the complaints. A spokesman for Edward S.

T.V. Lark, a $10,000 purchase at the 1958 Del Mar yearling sales, won the rich 1958 Arlington Futurity for C. R. McCoy, Long Beach, Calif., dredging operator.

Barsky, Inc., one of those receiving an FTC complaint, said "sure we paid disc jockeys. We met competition. Every company was involved in one way or another. We merely fought the battle to sell records, and that was to pay some of the bigger disc jockeys."

The spokesman refused, however, to name any disc jockeys who received payoffs. He said his firm operates in eastern Pennsylvania and southern New Jersey and distributes, among many labels, records made by MGM, Verve, Liberty and 20th Century Fox.

Sparks Music Distributors, Inc., and David Rosen, Inc., both distributors, declined comment, but admitted receiving the FTC complaint.

FTC Accuses 9 Companies Of Deception

ability to suppress competition and snag business unfairly from competitors in violation of the FTC Act.

The three record-makers named in the complaints are: Radio Corp. of America, New York City; London Records, Inc., New York City, and Bernard Lowe Enterprises, Inc., Philadelphia.

The distributors are: Edward S. Barsky, Inv., Chips Distributing Co., Inc., David Rosen, Inc., Universal Record Distributing Corp., and Sparks Music Distributors, Inc., all of Philadelphia, and Main Line Cleveland, Inc., Cleveland, Ohio.

The FTC said disc jockeys who received under-the-table payments played the same records as often as six to ten times a day. It reported that this substantially boosted the sales of these records and gave them an advantage in popularity polls.

The companies have 30 days in which to answer the complaints.

A spokesman for Edward S. T.V. Lark, a $10,000 purchase at the 1958 Del Mar yearling sales, won the rich 1959 Arlington Futurity for C. R. McCoy, Long Beach, Calif., dredging operator.

CLASS B PLAYOFF

Mangham Edges Wisner, 13 To 6

WINNSBORO, La. (Special) — Quarterback Don Adams slanted off tackle on a 25-yard scoring dash with six minutes remaining to snap a deadlock and give Mangham a 13-6 victory over previously unbeaten Wisner in a Class B bi-district playoff game here last night.

The Dragons, who tied Wisner earlier in the year, will host Cotton Valley, district 1-B champion, next weekend in the state semi-finals. The game has been tentatively set for 8 p.m. Friday.

Cotton Valley, with a record of 8 wins and 3 losses for the year, drew a bye in opening round playoffs.

Wisner grabbed a Dragon fumble in the first quarter and converted it into a quick 6-0 lead. Taking over on the Mangham 20 after the bobble, Wisner drove to the eight. Then quarterback Buddy Powell circled right end for the game's first touchdown. Jerry Enslinger's attempted run for the extra point was stopped short.

A Wisner fumble and a Dragon recovery on the Mangham 40 initiated the winners' first touchdown drive in the second quarter. A series of ground plays and a 29-yard pass from Adams to halfback Dennis Evans placed the ball on the Wisner one.

Adams sneaked over for the touchdown. The try for the PAT failed and the game was deadlocked at intermission.

The winning score came midway in the final period. Mangham took possession on their own 46 and in several plays romped to the Wisner 25. Then Adams slashed off tackle for 25 yards to put the game away. Noble Ellington kicked the 13th point.

Mangham held a wide edge in first downs, rolling up 11 while holding Wisner to 3, all of which came in the first half. The Dragons are now 7-4-2 for the season.

Jaycees Play In Hospitality Game Today

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — Henderson County (Tex.) Junior College, co-champion of the Texas Junior College Athletic Conference, and Pearl River (Miss.) Junior College meet Saturday in the fifth annual Hospitality Bowl football game.

The high-scoring Texans won eight, lost two and tied one during the regular season and battled Navarro to a 14-14 tie to share conference honors.

The Mississippians had only a tie with Sunflower to mark another otherwise perfect 10-game slate.

Fullback Joe Bob Johnson is the hub of the Henderson offense and operates behind a line anchored by tackle James Banks, a 240-pounder who made the JC all-American team along with Johnson.

Quarterback Bobby Weaver and halfback Tommy Ezell make the Pearl River attack go, and the 5,000 fans will see an all-out battle.

Arizin Leads Philly Over St. Louisians

DETROIT (AP) — Paul Arizin led an early second half surge that carried the Philadelphia Warriors to a 124-112 victory over the St. Louis Hawks in the opener of a National Basketball Assn. doubleheader Friday night.

The Detroit Pistons met the Minneapolis Lakers in the second game as a crowd of more than 11,000, largest in pro basketball history at Olympia Stadium, watched.

After a close first half which saw the Warriors hold a 34-33 edge at the quarter and 66-65 at that half, Philadelphia went on a scoring rampage in the first eight minutes of the third period.

Arizin scored three straight baskets and Joe Graboski followed with another pair before Bob Pettit made the first St. Louis points of the half.

Philadelphia hit 13 of 19 shots during this stretch as it expanded its lead to 22 points.

Grayson and Central boys clash at 12:30 and Fort and Baskin at 1:30. The finals are slated for 7:00 straight victory in the first professional title fight ever staged at 10 for Kelly.

Webb slipped to the canvas in the 10th, but it was not a knock-down. Fullmer went to the floor twice but referee Ken Shulsen ruled that both were slips—in the first and fourth rounds.

However, Gene's descent in the fourth looked like a legitimate knockout from a right to the chin. Webb was dumped to the canvas in the first round for a 15th and Brown, each scoring 13 points. Patton put in 16 for Kelly.

Fullmer, weighing 159½ pounds, had Webb's 157½ registered his 11th and 12th rounds.

Their final scores are 7:00 straight victory in the first pro-

at 10 for Kelly.

Because of Gene's plunging counter-attack Friday night and the jolting effects of his blows, the three ring officials voted unanimously in giving him the first, fifth, sixth, ninth, 11th and 14th rounds.

Fullmer suffered slight cuts on both brows and a nick under his lower lip.

Webb opened impressively and strangely enough, many of the out-boxed Gene in the first round but Fullmer came back with counterplunges in the second roundly when it was announced.

The three ring officials favored

Gene of West Jordan, Utah, over

his challenger as follows: Referee

Shulsen, 147-141; judge Del Markham, 143-133, and judge Boyd Mattinson, 150-132.

Fullmer's plunging, bludgeoning had Webb's knees wobbly in the seventh and 15th rounds, but he could not put the lanky challenger from Chicago down once.

LaGrange Tops Easton, 12-0

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — Quarterback Al Burguises belted across for two touchdowns to lead undefeated LaGrange to a 12-0 victory over Warren Easton Friday night in the state triple-A first round playoff.

The victory gave LaGrange, which had a 10-0 season mark, the right to meet Jesuit in the semi-finals. Jesuit drew a bye. The game will be played here Dec. 11.

Burguises' two scoring runs were both seven yard sprints on option plays. They came in the first quarter and on the game's last tie.

Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., had a 74 for 149, well beyond the limit. Wall is the leading money winner of the year.

Doug Ford, Crystal River, Fla., could do no better than a 73 for 148.

Tribe Falls To East Texas In Season Opener, 59 To 51

COMMERCIAL, La. (Special) — East Texas State rallied in the final half to turn back Northeast Louisiana State, 59-51, here last night.

The game was the second of the season for the winners, now 1-1, and the first for Coach Lenny Fant's Northeast Indians.

Behind, 26-23, at halftime intermission, East Texas pulled ahead to win in the final half. Noel Fain got 21 points to pace the Texans, Bill Culpepper 13 and Ronald Vaughn 12.

Northeast had only 11 field goals to 19 for ETS but was hot at the free throw line, hitting on 29 of 39 free throws.

Lannie Johnson got 14 points to pace the rebuilding Indians with freshman Freddy Marzura contributing 13. Johnson got eight of his points at the foul line and Mazura seven.

Northeast had the edge on the backboards, pulling down 38 rebounds to 34 for the host club. However, poor aim from the field lost it for the Indians. Northeast hit on only 19 per cent of its shots from the field.

Northeast moves to Beaumont, Texas, tonight for a shot at Lamar Tech and returns to Monroe Monday evening for the home opener against William Carey of Hattiesburg, Miss.

FTC Accuses 9 Companies Of Deception

ability to suppress competition and snags business unfairly from competitors in violation of the FTC Act.

The three record-makers named in the complaints are: Radio Corp. of America, New York City; London Records, Inc., New York City, and Bernard Lowe Enterprises, Inc., Philadelphia.

The distributors are: Edward S. Barsky, Inc., Chips Distributing Co., Inc., David Rosen, Inc., Universal Record Distributing Corp., and Sparks Music Distributors, Inc., all of Philadelphia, and Main Line Cleveland, Inc., Cleveland, Ohio.

The FTC said disc jockeys who received under-the-table payments played the same records as often as six to ten times a day. It reported that this substantially boosted the sales of these records and gave them an advantage in popularity polls.

The companies have 30 days in which to answer the complaints.

A spokesman for Edward S. T.V. Lark, a $10,000 purchase at the 1958 Del Mar yearling sales, won the rich 1959 Arlington Futurity for C. R. McCoy, Long Beach, Calif., dredging operator.

Barsky, Inc., one of those receiving an FTC complaint, said "sure we paid disc jockeys. We met competition. Every company was involved in one way or another. We merely fought the battle to sell records, and that was to pay some of the bigger disc jockeys."

The spokesman refused, however, to name any disc jockeys who received payoffs. He said his firm operates in eastern Pennsylvania and southern New Jersey and distributes, among many labels, records made by MGM, Verve, Liberty and 20th Century Fox.

Sparks Music Distributors, Inc., and David Rosen, Inc., both distributors, declined comment, but admitted receiving the FTC complaint.

Kiwanis Club Date Changed

Because of the Neville High School football game next Friday, the North Monroe Kiwanis Club has changed the date of its Monroe Pageant of Safety to Saturday, January 9. President Edward Miller said that the change in dates would eliminate interference with the game.

waiting to take the bodies away. Burial was made by families in private.

Where silt lay deep over the roads and fields, soldiers and volunteers searched for bodies.

When the 145-foot-tall dam crumbled against the pressure of millions of tons of water stored from heavy rain the homes of the rural valley were smashed as by a giant fist. Twisted wreckage settled over and it was in these places that the rescuers worked.

The response of France to the national disaster, and aid offered by neighboring countries, kept crisis from the area. Water trucks served street corner queues and no critical food shortages were reported. U.S. Navy bakers provided thousands of loaves of bread.

Seized Plane

Lands Amid

Brazil Fury

chief flying instructor at Brazil's air force school, they stole a total of five planes and holed up overnight with the Constellation's passengers at Aragarcas, in the Amazon basin, 1,100 miles northwest of Rio.

The rebels appeared to be fighting a propaganda campaign against the presidential hopeful for administration-backed War Minister Henrique Teixeira Lott, whom the air force has long feared.

Brazilian authorities speculated that they might have headed to Chacimbo or to Jacareacanga where a similar small-scale revolt fizzled in 1956.

The Constellation, recognized by Panair do Brasil authorities flew into Argentine unannounced.

Only when the Brazilians were over the field at Ezeiza, 18 miles southwest of Buenos Aires, did they contact the tower.

Tower technicians sought to divert the plane to another field. Unable to do that, they cleared a runway for the landing. Police ringed the plane.

Later, the Brazilians were moved to a secluded office at the airport and Argentine air force guards took over. A news blackout was imposed.

Brazilian Ambassador D. A. Boultrie sent a delegation from his embassy to the airport to investigate.

Thirty seven passengers, including two Americans, spent a night of terror at the jungle airstrip before being released unharmed.

The Americans were Mildred Hollman, 32, a U.S. employee of the Watch Tower religious society who has lived in Brazil since 1949, and Robert Bartlett, 43, Ludington, Mich., a U.S. government expert assigned to a U.S. Point Four mission in Belém.

Evaristo Cardoso, reporter for the Brazilian news agency Meridional who was on board the plane, said the insurgents threatened two other newsmen passengers and Sen. Remi Archer, president of the Bank of Amazonia in Belém who was flying home from Rio.

These students must make their reservations by 4 p.m. Dec. 18 to take advantage of this priority, Vogel said.

After that time rooms will be assigned to other students on waiting lists and to new students.

The rebels, reportedly led by Propero Punaro Barata, 30, chief flying instructor at Brazil's air force academy, that their cause was hopeless, Cardoso said.

A message from Archer, radiod at Aragarcas, asked President Juscelino Kubitschek not to regard his presence with the rebels as a sign he had joined them, the presidential office said.

The rebellion brought an apparent surge of popular support for Kubitschek, with antigovernment candidates for the 1960 presidential elections and antigovernment newspapers offering him their backing.

The rebels appeared to be fighting a propaganda campaign against the presidential hopeful for administration-backed War Minister Henrique Teixeira Lott, whom the air force has long feared.

Early Friday the rebels flew the Constellation deeper into the jungle with one of the passengers as hostage.

Burial was made by families in private.

Where silt lay deep over the roads and fields, soldiers and volunteers searched for bodies.

When the 105-foot-high dam crumbled against the pressure of millions of tons of water stored from heavy rain the homes of the rural valley were smashed as by a giant fist. Twisted wreckage sifted over and it was in these places that the rescuers worked.

The response of France to the national disaster, and aid offered by neighboring countries, kept crisis from the area. Water trucks served street corner queues and no critical food shortages were reported. U.S. Navy bakers provided thousands of loaves of bread.

Seized Plane

Brazil Furor

chief flying instructor at Brazil's air force school, he stole a total of five planes and holed up overnight with the Constellation's passengers at Aragaras, in the Amazon basin, 1,100 miles northwest of Rio.

Early Friday the rebels flew the Constellation deeper into the jungles with one of the passengers as hostage.

Brazilian authorities speculated that they might have headed to Cachimbo or to Jacareacanga, where a similar small-scale revolt fizzled in 1956.

The Constellation, recognized by Panair do Brasil authorities flew into Argentina unannounced.

Only when the Brazilians were over the field at Ezeiza, 18 miles southwest of Buenos Aires, did they contact the tower.

Tower technicians sought to divert the plane to another field, unable to do that, they cleared a runway for the landing. Police ringed the plane.

Later, the Brazilians were moved to a secluded office at the airport and Argentine air force guards took over. A news blackout was imposed.

Brazilian Ambassador D. A. Boulietrau Fragosa sent a delegation from his embassy to the airport to investigate.

Thirty seven passengers, including two Americans, spent a night of terror at the jungle airstrip before being released unharmed.

The Americans were Mildred Hollman, 32, a U.S. employee of the Watch Tower religious society who has lived in Brazil since 1949, and Robert Bartlett, 43, Ludington, Mich., a U.S. government expert assigned to a U.S. Point Four mission in Belém.

Varistio Cardoso, reporter for the Brazilian news agency Meridional who was on board the plane, said the rebels threatened two other newsmen passengers and Sen. Remi Archer, president of the Bank of Amazonia in Belém who was flying home from Rio.

Archer tried vainly to convince the rebels, reportedly led by Propero Funaro Barata, 30, chief flying instructor at Brazil's air force academy, that their cause was hopeless, Cardoso said.

A message from Archer, radioed at Aragaras, asked President Juscelino Kubitschek not to regard his presence with the rebels as a sign he had joined them, the presidential office said.

The rebellion brought an apparent surge of popular support for Kubitschek, with antigovernment candidates for the 1960 presidential elections and antigovernment newspapers offering him their backing.

The rebels appeared to be fighting a propaganda campaign against the presidential hopes for administration-backed War Minister Henrique Teixeira Lott, with whom the air force has feuded.

A rebel manifesto said they had supported Janio Quadros, 42, former São Paulo governor, for the presidency until he withdrew from the race last week. Now, the manifesto said, their only hope to cleanse Brazil is in revolution.

Kubitschek said he will "not tolerate one minute of disorder," and that the "maximum rigor" of the law will fall on the rebels when they are apprehended. The Air Ministry gave Barata eight days to present himself for disciplinary action.

The revolt erupted shortly before dawn Thursday at the Rio air force base when Barata and a group of officers took off in three C47 mail planes. Two pilots stole a seven-passenger private plane 210 miles north of Rio and flew north toward the back country. Eight other officers commanded the civilian airliner en route from Rio to Belém and forced the pilot to fly to Aragaras.

He failed in his attempt and the woman began screaming.

"She called out 'oh lord, how can you let a thing like this happen,'" Brown said. "She screamed louder and louder and I began getting mad. Her screaming made me nervous—that's when I started making motions."

Brown said he stabbed Miss Moeller "three or four times" with a switchblade knife his companion had given him after she started screaming.

Miss Moeller ran about a block before she collapsed. She still clutched her purse when found. Police said it contained 20 cents.

CLASS B PLAYOFFMangham Edges
Wisner, 13 To 6

WINNSBORO, La. (Special) — Quarterback Don Adams slanted off tackle on a 25-yard scoring dash with six minutes remaining to snap a deadlock and give Mangham a 13-6 victory over previously unbeaten Wisner in a Class B bi-district playoff game here last night.

The Dragons, who tied Wisner earlier in the year, will host Cotton Valley, district 1-B champion, next weekend in the state semifinals. The game has been tentatively set for 8 p.m. Friday.

Cotton Valley, with a record of 8 wins and 3 losses for the year, drew a bye in opening round playoffs.

Wisner grabbed a Dragon fumble in the first quarter and converted it into a quick 6-0 lead. Taking over on the Mangham 20

after the bobble, Wisner drove to the eight. Then quarterback Buddy Powell circled right end for the game's first touchdown. Jerry Enslinger's attempted run for the extra point was stopped short.

A Wisner fumble and a Dragon recovery on the Mangham 40 initiated the winners' first touchdown drive in the second quarter. A series of ground plays and a 30-yard pass from Adams to half-back Dennis Evans placed the ball on the Wisner one.

Adams sneaked over for the touchdown. The try for the PAT failed and the game was deadlocked at intermission.

The winning score came midway in the final period. Mangham took possession on their own 46 and in several plays romped to the Wisner 25. Then Adams slashed off tackle for 25 yards to put the game away. Noble Ellington kicked the 13th point.

Mangham held a wide edge in first downs, rolling up 11 while holding Wisner to 3, all of which came in the first half. The Dragons are now 7-4-2 for the season.

Game Today

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — Henderson County (Tex.) Junior College, co-champion of the Texas Junior College Athletic Conference, and Pearl River (Miss.) Junior College meet Saturday in the fifth annual Hospitality Bowl football game.

The high-scoring Texans won eight, lost two and tied one during the regular season and battled Navarro to a 14-14 tie to share conference honors.

The Mississippians had only a tie with Sunflower to mark an otherwise perfect 10-game slate.

Pullback Joe Bob Johnson is the hub of the Henderson offense and operates behind a line anchored by tackle James Banks, a 240-pounder who made the JC All-America team along with Johnson.

Quarterback Bobby Weaver and halfback Tommy Ezell make the Pearl River attack go, and the 5,000 fans expected for the game probably will see an all-out battle.

Arizin Leads

St. Louisians

DETROIT (AP) — Paul Arizin led an early second half surge that carried the Philadelphia Warriors to a 124-112 victory over the St. Louis Hawks in the opener of a National Basketball Assn. doubleheader Friday night.

The Detroit Pistons met the Minneapolis Lakers in the second game as a crowd of more than 11,000, largest in pro basketball history, at Olympia Stadium, watched.

After a close first half which saw the Warriors hold a 34-33 edge at the quarter and 66-65 at that half, Philadelphia went on a scoring rampage in the first eight minutes of the third period.

Arizin scored three straight baskets and Joe Grajanski followed with another pair before Bob Pettit, it made the first St. Louis points of the half.

Philadelphia hit 13 of 19 shots during this stretch as it expanded its lead to 22 points.

FULLMER DECISIONS WEBB TO RETAIN CHAMPIONSHIP

By JACK CUDDY

LAWRENCE, Utah (UPI) — Champion Gene Fullmer again beat Spider (Spider) Webb Friday night with a wild-hooking attack for a unanimous 15-round decision.

Gene of West Jordan, Utah, over his challenger as follows: Referee Shulsen, 147-141; judge Del Markham, 143-136, and judge Boyd Mattinson, 150-132.

The United Press International

Webb opened impressively and out-boxed Gene in the first round but Fullmer came back with countering plunges in the second. In the third round, Gene jolted the challenger five times with rights to the head and once with a left.

They fought on even terms in the fifth, but then Fullmer's countering attacks let him sweep the next six rounds on the United Press International score sheet.

Webb rallied to take the 11th, 12th and 13th on the UPI sheet because of his more accurate punching, particularly with the right in the 12th.

But Fullmer came storming back to win the 14th and 15th sessions impressively.

Fullmer suffered slight cuts on both brows and a nick under his lower lip.

Fullmer went to the floor twice, but referee Ken Shulsen ruled that both were slips—in the first and fourth rounds.

However, Gene's descent in the fourth looked like a legitimate knockout from a right to the chin. Webb was dumped to the canvas in the first round for a slip.

Fullmer, weighing 159½ pounds to Webb's 157½, registered his 11th to 7:00 straight victory in the first professional title fight ever staged on a college campus.

Strangely enough, many of the spectators—including some students—boozed the lopsided decision roundly when it was announced.

The three ring officials favored

Gene's 15-round decision as follows: Referee Shulsen, 147-141; judge Del Markham, 143-136, and judge Boyd Mattinson, 150-132.

The United Press International

Fullmer's plunging, bludgeoning attack had Webb's knees wobbly in the seventh and 15th rounds, but he could not put the lanky challenger from Chicago down once.

Webb slipped to the canvas in the 10th, but it was not a knockdown.

Fullmer went to the floor twice, but referee Ken Shulsen ruled that both were slips—in the first and fourth rounds.

Because of Gene's plunging counter-attacks Friday night and the jolting effects of his blows, the three ring officials voted unanimously in giving him the first, fifth, sixth, ninth, 11th and 14th rounds.

FIRST PLACE BATTLE

49ers Out To Crack 7-Year Jinx Against Colts Today

By HARRY JUPITER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A seven-year jinx, a yearning for revenge and the National Football League's Western Conference title are on the line Saturday in the Baltimore Colt's 49ers game.

Coach Red Hickey's 49ers have never won a title and they're still burning from a humiliating 45-14 trampling by the Colts Nov. 22 at Baltimore.

The Colts have never won a game in San Francisco.

The winner of their nationally televised game will clinch at least a tie for first place in the Conference.

All the other NFL games will be played Sunday, with the big one at New York, where the Giants hope to wrap up the Eastern Division championship by defeating the Cleveland Browns.

The 49ers, who figured to go nowhere this season, have been the surprise of the league. The key to their success has been a spirited, scrapping defensive unit. The defense has been barely good enough.

Baltimore, perhaps because of beginning training early in order to meet the College All-Stars last August, experienced a mid-season dip. But the Colts came here with a three-game winning streak that brought them to 7-3, the same record as San Francisco.

The 49ers were embarrassed by the shellacking the Colts gave them.

"They just plain beat the heck out of us," said Y. A. Tittle, the 49ers' regular quarterback, suffering a painful knee injury in that game and is not expected to play in this one.

His understudy, John Brodie, guided San Francisco to a 21-20 upset over Cleveland Sunday. Baltimore, with Lennie Moore used sparingly, beat Los Angeles 33-21. Colt Coach Webb Ewbank said, "We didn't use Moore any more than we had to, but he says he's ready to go full steam against the 49ers. Our team is in good shape."

"As for this jinx talk, I don't think it will affect us. You win with blocking and tackling. The past doesn't mean a thing."

Ewbank said he still considers the 49ers a tough team. "We beat Washington early in the season and the boys let up against them the second time. Well, the Red-

Syracuse Choice To Whip UCLA

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sports of all sorts:

It's Syracuse over UCLA Saturday in college football's regular season windup, thereby giving the East a probable national champ for the first time since Army's glory days... An upset, though, would make the Sugar Bowl game between Mississippi and Louisiana State the year's top game with the winner staking a valid claim to the national crown... LSU toppled Ole Miss, 37-23, during the regular season.

Major League Player Reps Meet To Discuss TV Pact

By NORMAN MILLER

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Major league player representatives meet Saturday to seek a greater voice in the renewal of baseball's multi-million dollar television radio contract.

The TV-radio money, a discussion of "getaway" dates on the 1960 schedule and the formal appointment of Judge Robert L. Cannon of Milwaukee, Wis., as their legal counsel also were on the agenda of the 16 player representatives who convene at the plush Fontainebleau Hotel prior to next Monday's start of the major league meetings.

On Sunday, the 16 major league club owners to present the recommendations agreed upon at Saturday's meeting. The players are headed by Robin Roberts and Harvey Kuenn.

The players do not exactly see eye-to-eye with commissioner Ford Frick on renewal of the present three million dollars a year TV-radio contract for the World Series and All-Star game. They are virtually interested because 60 per cent of the revenue goes into their pension fund.

Frick, it is learned, would like to renew the contract with the present sponsor right now for another three years. The present contract, drawn up for five years, expires at the end of the 1961 season.

The players would prefer to let the existing contract expire and then throw it open for competitive bidding. They realize they have the most attractive "package" in the television industry and feel they can get at least an additional one million dollars a year for it.

Frick has assured the players that he will make every effort to get the highest possible sum for them and has promised to keep them informed of the negotiations.

As for the scheduling, for the first time ever the players will approve of the slate they are to play next season.

The crux of the matter is the owners' practice of scheduling

Haynes Casts Lot With AFL

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Abner Haynes, North Texas State's half-back, has decided to sign a contract with the Dallas Texans of the American Football League.

He is passing up a contract with the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League. He was the No. 2 draft choice of the Steers.

Haynes said Thursday he will sign with the Texans at El Paso Dec. 31 after his team has played New Mexico State in the Sun Bowl.

Dallas traded a future draft choice to Minneapolis-St. Paul for AFL rights to Haynes.

night games on "getaway" dates (the final day of a series with another club) or on the eve of a daytime double-header without the players' consent.

This year for the first time the player representatives were given a preliminary peek at a rough draft of the 1960 schedule. Owners promptly agreed to eliminate six "hardship" dates. The players agreed to four others which could not be avoided. Five such dates still remain to be negotiated with the owners.

Gov't, State Want Taxes On Title Bout

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Government and New York State have served notice they want their taxable share of heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson's $152,475 purse which is being held by the state athletic commission.

This was disclosed Friday by Gen. Melvin Krulewitch, chairman of the athletic commission, in a statement explaining the commission's position as keeper of the funds. Johansson's purse for his title-winning fight with Floyd Patterson at Yankee Stadium last June 26 was held in escrow to guarantee Patterson a return fight.

Krulewitch said the internal revenue department has notified Johansson and the commission that it claims it is entitled to 30 per cent of all or some portion of the money for taxes. The State Tax Commission has advised the athletic commission it is calling an interest for state taxes that may be due.

Krulewitch said the commission has an assignment executed by Johansson of portions of these monies to various individuals and concerns. The assignment, he said, is subject to Johansson's obligation under the Jan. 29, 1959, contract to place $100,000 in escrow upon his defeating Patterson (which he did).

At the same time Krulewitch said the commission is not an escrowee and indicated he and his fellow commissioners would like to unload the burden of holding the cash.

Dr. Arthur H. Scoulen, chairman of the committee on eligibility, said the two would violate the Ivy League and the Eastern College Athletic Conference agreements if they played in an all-star game.

Hanlon and Duelling then told Dr. Gaylord P. Harrelson, Penn president:

"We have realized our commitment by signing the Ivy League agreement and will uphold it in our decision to decline the invitation to decline the invitation in the respective bowl games."

"It is not our wish to discredit the University of Pennsylvania by breaking the Ivy League code."

The Ivy agreement specifies:

"No players attending the institutions comprising the Ivy group shall participate in a post-season or pre-season games such as an all-star game."

The ECAC rule requires any player desiring to play in a pre-season or post-season game to obtain permission from his university or college.

Dr. Scoulen, an English professor, said he and his committee met for 1½ hours with Hanlon when they learned the player planned to participate in the North-South game. He said:

"We reminded him of the fact he had signed the Ivy agreement. We tried to convince him not to play. We appealed to his honor. When we felt he might go, we told him of the possible actions this committee might take. We did not threaten him, merely informed him of the facts."

Dr. Scoulen said the committee would take no action at the present time.

"We must wait and see if Hanlon and Duelling play in the All-Star Games. Then," he said, "we'll have to sit down and make a report to the president."

Dr. Scoulen emphasized that final action should such a report become necessary, rested with Dr. Gaylord P. Harrelson, president of the university.

Ivy Stars Pass Up Post-Season Tilts

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two University of Pennsylvania seniors Friday passed up bids to post-season all-star games after they were told their participation might result in Penn's forfeiting its Ivy League title.

Fullback Jack Hanlon had accepted an invitation to play in the North-South Game. Halfback Fred Duelling had been asked to play in the Copper Bowl game. Both are on Dec. 26.

Dr. Arthur H. Scoulen, chairman of the committee on eligibility, said the two would violate the Ivy League and the Eastern College Athletic Conference agreements if they played in an all-star game.

Hanlon and Duelling then told Dr. Gaylord P. Harrelson, Penn president:

City Drug manager Fuzzy Huff will probably start L. V. Norris, Jerry Lovett, Frank McCain, George Davis and Basted Carlisle with Lou Bravo, Levy Ward, Wayne Tiarasi and Billy Wiggins scheduled for action.

The visiting Kilpatrick-Gresham Falcons, managed by Tom Ayres, will have such stars as Buddy Bates and David Brown of Northwestern, Troy Rushing of LSU, Flop Shively, Glen Robinson, Harmond Ayres and Ray Simmons of Northeast.

City Drug pilot Huff is looking for a strong opponent for a Monday night game in Farmerville. Anyone interested is urged to contact Huff at the Alvis Hotel in Monroe.

Mrs. Marion Henderson, a scholarship student, Duelling, Valparaiso, Ind., the university's all-time ground-gaining champion, has an academic scholarship.

This isn't the first time the problem has cropped up. Chet Forte, Columbia basketball star, broke the Ivy agreement in the spring of 1957, when he joined a group of seniors in an All-Star Harlem Globetrotter tour.

Last year, Dartmouth's Rudy LaRusso played in the North-South Game. Halfback Fred Duelling had been asked to play in the Copper Bowl game. Both are on Dec. 26.

Dr. Arthur H. Scoulen, chairman of the committee on eligibility, said the two would violate the Ivy League and the Eastern College Athletic Conference agreements if they played in an all-star game.

SUGGESTION IGNORED

AL To Explore Loop Expansion

By JOE REICHLER

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The American League will ignore Commissioner Ford Frick's suggestion to take a definite stand on expansion, it was learned Friday.

If the American League does make such an inconclusive announcement, said a Continental League franchise holder who asked not to be identified, "it will prove once and for all that the majors are determined to sabotage our efforts to become a third big league."

"The commissioner has ordered the American and National Leagues to put up or shut up on the subject of expansion. They'd better listen to him or they'll be in for a lot of trouble."

"If they don't, then it is up to the commissioner to force them to do so."

Joe Cronin, president of the American League, did not appear alarmed by the threat.

"I don't see how anyone can tell us to give a definite 'Yes' or 'No' on expansion right now," he said. "They don't seem to realize all the problems involved and the numerous necessary steps which have to be taken first. This takes time—lots of it."

"There's the minor leagues' territorial settlement, the cities involved, the player pension and the availability of players themselves. There's the question of whether we should expand to nine or 10 teams, whether the National League wants expansion."

"Then the American League would have to decide whether to go it alone if the National League decides to remain as is."

Frank Lane, general manager of the Cleveland Indians and former chairman of the re-alignment committee which explored the possibility of major league expansion as far back as 10 years ago, was more outspoken.

"I don't know why the Continental League, which is just coming into being, should tell an established league like ours what to do," said Lane.

"And I don't know why we should have to pinpoint and say where we're going to go. I think the American League should have the opportunity to make its own decisions on the cities that apply for admission."

"It seems to me the five-team Continental League is going out of its way to criticize the American League and Ford Frick. Instead of throwing rocks at the commissioner, why don't they go out and get three more cities?"

Lane denied a Continental League assertion that the majors had informed it last October they had no intention of expanding.

The Mississippians ranked sixth in total offense among NAIA teams while the Oklahomans squared sixth defensively in final NAIA football statistics.

The Oklahomans use a two-platoon system with offensive and defensive specialists. Roger Waldron, 170-pound quarterback from Claremore, Okla., is the guiding light in the Sooner state team's attack.

Delta has its offense built around Frank Greenlee and Don Ward, who will share quarterback duties.

WOMAN'S WORLD

GIRL ON A PINK CLOUD! We wish this were a color picture, because then you'd know why even an angel takes second place! Think of the softest, yummiest pink you can imagine — and you have the pink of the wonderful "Bobolero," a sweater, with tiny pockets, and mandarin neckline — a cloud-soft cardigan to wear everywhere! Then visualize pink, blocked off with pale gray and white colorings, in a wool plaid that makes the skirt-you-can't-live-without... full skirted, deep-pleated. The handsome gray belt is a smart accent. Of course you'll want the shirt to match. (And if you're not a "pink" girl, think of the other dream colors — blue and beige and lilac — from which you can choose!) Maybe heaven can wait — but you don't have to, not with these high-on-a-cloud fashions.

Mrs. Tucker Honored At Tea Shower

Miss Sally Hinkle and Miss Mary Elizabeth Webster were hostesses at a tea shower last weekend for Mrs. Bob Tucker, the former Miss Emily K. Ensninger.

The home of Dr. and Mrs. Harrell Webster on Pardon Boulevard was appointed with fall chrysanthemums for the occasion. Bronze and yellow mums were used in the den where the group of friends enjoyed the afternoon with the guest of honor.

In the dining room a gold cornucopia filled with colorful fall fruit centered the table, where Mrs. Henry Hinkle presided at the coffee service. Mrs. Webster assisted in the courtesies.

Guests included Miss Mary Jo Davenport, Miss Kay Worley, Miss Mary Emma Wilson, Mrs. Jack Rivers, Miss Jo Ann Mahaffey, Miss Alice Guyton, Miss Betty Montezos, Miss Nancy Albright, Mrs. George M. Snellings III of Baton Rouge and Miss Lesley Shaw, houseguest during the Thanksgiving holidays in the Snellings home on Country Club Road.

Some new towels come in stripes ranging from pale beige to dark brown. You could echo your whole scheme to one of these. Use the palest shade for walls and woodwork, the middle shade for shower curtains and the majority of your towels, and the deepest tone for bath mat.

Wood Panelling Is Too Heavy For Small Room

By BETTY PEPPIS
Q. — We have a long curved sectional sofa in brown and white, a lounge chair in gold and extra chair in turquoise. Walls and woodwork are natural wood. TV set is mahogany. Please, what colors for walls, carpeting, draperies, cornice, lamps and tables. This room has large arch opening onto a long entrance hall and small arch opening onto long central hall. Must these halls be painted to match the living room?

A. — Paint living room walls white and two hallways gold to match your gold chair. Repeat gold color for draperies and cornice as well as carpeting. Coffee table might have brass legs and a white top of either plastic or marble. Lamp shades should be brass with white shades. Lamp tables should be either mahogany or a wood light enough to contrast rather than compete with TV set. Other accessories should be turquoise.

Q. — My kitchen is 14 by 9. Sink, stove and refrigerator are white. Floor is gray and red, as is dinette set. Doors and baseboard are stained maple. I need new kitchen cabinets and counter tops and wonder what you suggest for these and walls. My husband is partial to wood paneling but I think the room is too small.

A. — I am inclined to agree with you. The wood paneling could look heavy in such a setting, especially with white appliances. My own choice would be for plastic sheeting which is expensive but will wear forever and can be completely washed down without marring or fading.

It comes in a variety of colors and textures. Washable paper or latex based paint would be second and third choices. For cabinets choose between white metal ones to match your appliances or wood ones stained to match maple-toned baseboards and doors.

It's A Comfort To Have An Imaginary Friend

By MARTLE MEYER ELDRED

It is comforting to many children all through the day and night to have an imaginary friend, we talk all the time, whether it be human or animal. Such children often are only children who long for companionship, but they may be merely highly imaginative children whose imaginative fancies know no bounds.

Such an imaginary friend can become the child's solace when lonely, or the scapegoat when the teacher is watching. The living room is now the classroom, carry; or it may become the child's conscience which tells what is right and is not right to do.

Mrs. M.H. writes: "Dear Mrs. Eldred: We would appreciate your advice concerning our 26-month-old daughter. Before her second birthday she began talking about an imaginary friend, using her own name. She asked us to open the door so she could watch and wait for her friend."

"She Is Real"

"There are days during the past month when she speaks almost constantly of her friend. She objects when I remind her that this is just a pretend friend. She says, 'No, Mommy, she is real. She is because of it.'

"I am aware that those are her key that YOU know her usually signs of loneliness — but friend is pretend. But otherwise what? Since the next year our daughter has talked and by moments she carried on complete conversations. She has a fantastic memory. She has my wife as ed in solid mahogany molding effects on some chests, or with the surface smoothly veneered to the edge for an unbroken design line, seen in the apron and legs of some occasional tables and in an alcove of a tall bookcase. The delightfully shaped columns, arches and other custom wood-working effects are features of mahogany's exceptionally fine cabinet - working characteristics which also assure lasting beauty. The night stands feature fiddle-back mahogany doors with delicate hand-screened diamond tracery in black, antiqued pulls and classic tapered legs.

Nurses Refuse Chronic Complainant As Husband

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: This letter wants nursing care 24 hours a day. It is being written by a battery of day. We see plenty of ailing ones during business hours. We don't know what to do.

We love your column, want to wear the cap around the neck it regularly and usually clock.—MAYO'S MAIDENS

BUT, Annie, we can't go along with your answer to the young girl who was dating the chronic complainer — the guy who carried his thermometer in his pencil case and took his temperature several times a day. You told the girl to find another boy friend and suggested that he would make some nurse a good husband!

Every one of us whose name appears at the bottom of this letter is single — and looking. But call Ron, we would prefer to die single rather than marry a man who last April, on June 12th, he wrote

How Can A

Nice Girl

Meet Boys?

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

It seems pitiful that some girls just can't meet boys. One 18-year-old girl laments this condition, and says she just can't seem to get dates because she has none of the usual opportunities for introductions close at hand. She has no brothers and no friends living near her home.

What do you do about it, she asks, because summer is a particularly lonely time.

Some of the ways to meet a man include:

1. If you are summer school bound, let's hope it is coed and that you choose a boy-type course, not pie making or sewing. There are a lot of home ec students in the bachelor girl bracket for that reason.

2. If you are going to a vacation resort, make sure it majors in golf, tennis and other mass-size attractions. Get dad to take you to a fishing camp. (He'll be glad to get away from it all.)

3. Choose a hobby that attracts boys, and spend honest time at it. Take your choice:

(a) Photography: Attend classes, visit camera shops, go to lectures and exhibits.

(b) Art school: Take a course in painting, sculpting, drawing, visit the museums.

(c) Poetry and short story: These attract young men to classes, and it'll be fun attending discussion groups.

4. Attend shooting matches, car races, other sports programs. Invest in a small sail boat, learn how to sail it, enter the races.

5. Learn the types of men who are attracted to you. People who resemble each other seem to have some out-of-the-ordinary feature in common — long nose, protruding teeth.

6. When you meet men casually, avoid being overly familiar. There is more to be gained in an air of mystery than in telling all on the first meeting.

Give him a reason to see you again and to yearn for a date.

7. If you haven't located a summer job, seek one that offers man-meeting opportunities.

8. Avoid time-wasting types who mean nothing in your future.

(a) Engaged or married men

(b) Those who plan long sojourns away from home or to other shores.

9. Attend church parties and those held by local organizations. There is a much better opportunity for romance when the boy is a local citizen who may be reminded of you occasionally, by meeting you at social gatherings.

10. Make friends with girls your own age who have older brothers. This is an excellent chance to advance your boy-meets-girl stock, and to keep in touch with the boys by seeing more of your girl friends at their homes.

YOUR BABY AND MINEIt's A Comfort To Have An Imaginary Friend

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

It is comforting to many children to have an imaginary friend, whether it be human or animal. Such children often are only children who long for companionship, but they may be merely highly imaginative children whose imaginative fancies know no bounds.

Such an imaginary friend can become the child's solace when lonely, or the scapegoat who bears the guilt the child should carry; or it may become the child's conscience which tells it what is and is not right to do.

Mrs. M.H. writes, "Dear Mrs. Eldred: We would appreciate your advice concerning our 28-month-old daughter. Before her second birthday she began talking about an imaginary friend, using for her her own nickname. She asked us to open the door so she could watch and wait for her friend."

'She Is Real'

"There are days during the past month when she speaks almost constantly of her friend. She objects when I remind her that this is just a pretend friend. She says, 'No, Mommy, she is real. She is a big girl.'

"I am aware that these are usually signs of loneliness — but why? Since the first year our daughter has talked and by 19 months she carried on complete conversations. She has a fantastic memory. She has my whole attention all through the day and we talk all the time.

"She has two neighborhood boys with whom she plays daily and a 4-year-old cousin whom she adores. She goes to nursery school and now makes up phrases, tricks and songs which she says the teacher taught her. Now she has to hurry through a meal because the 'teacher' is waiting. The living room is now the classroom.

"Is it the right thing to discourage, encourage or ignore this? Should we try to persuade her to break off relations with this pretend friend? We are anxiously waiting to hear from you."

Answer

Because the child is living a perfectly normal life with normal companions and all the experiences which go with them, I see no reason to deprive her of her imaginary friend. She is highly imaginative and unusually precocious and I would not worry that she had lost any touch with reality and was living in a dream world. She is just enhancing her real world and having more fun because of it.

It's all right, at times, to let her know that YOU know her friend is pretend. But otherwise let her enjoy her.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease may be asked. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

HOME ADAPTATIONS IN PARKINSONISM

Two thirds of all victims of parkinsonism are over 60. The majority have marked tremor of the hands and head, lack coordination, and move slowly and deliberately. They lean forward and take short steps when walking. The arms are kept at the side due to loss of swing.

Various medicines are available to lessen the handicap but the majority of afflicted persons need help at home in order to get about safely and avoid accidents. This aspect is seldom considered yet it is important for more comfortable living. Many of these suggestions apply to any household where older men and women live.

The least expensive change is to eliminate scatter rugs and slippery floor surfaces. Even a gentle fall caused by slipping on a rug or tripping over a doorknob may break the hip and the ensuing fracture may be a catastrophe to these people.

There are dozens of other tricks to maintain balance and prevent falls. A wooden or metal handle fastened to the wall opposite a door knob will enable an unsteady individual to support himself while opening the door. Those living on one floor are fortunate because they do not contend with stairs. Stairways should be protected with balustrades or supports on the wall unless the family can afford an electric elevator.

It is difficult to eat when the hands tremble. Many solve the problem by not eating and this and not the disease is responsible for weight loss. It is embarrassing to spill food and these sufferers eat so slowly they quit before satisfied. They should be encouraged to finish everything. If need be, get an electrically heated tray to keep the food warm.

There are books on hints for physically disabled persons that make life more tolerable. It is the little things that help the most. Objects in daily use should be placed within reach and there are numerous ways to make dressing and undressing easier. A little ingenuity at home may offer more practical assistance to the victim of parkinsonism than all the drugs in the pharmacy. Moreover, there is no substitute for kindness and understanding when this situation exists.

Dr. Van Dellen will send a leaflet on parkinsonism if stamped self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

WINTER SKIN

R. J. writes: Every winter I develop cracks in the skin of my soles, heels, and palms. Is there any way to prevent this nuisance besides keeping the skin dry?

REPLY

The commonest causes of this condition are dryness, chapping, and the use of strong soaps or detergents. Lubricating the skin helps, including the use of creams or lotions containing silicone.

Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on skin cracks.

SKIN REACTION

L. M. writes: How does a physician decide if a rash is due to allergy or to nerves?

REPLY

By asking questions on whether the eruption follows emotional upheavals, eating certain foods, inhaling dust, or coming into contact with irritating fabrics, cosmetics, or other substances. Skin tests and elimination diets aid in uncovering allergens. The response to an anti-allergic drug or a tranquilizer offers additional clues.

SOUND TREATMENT

M. S. writes: Is the ultrasound treatment of Meniere's disease successful?

REPLY

Yes, but it is a highly technical procedure that only a few physicians do.

VOX POP

A woman who lives on Montana avenue in a town in Idaho took me to task about an article on losing weight. "You sound just like the doctor I used to go to. His refrain was 'If you are

From now on the 40 & 8 will be forbidden to use the American Legion name or its emblem in any connection with its activities, announced legion National Commander Martin McKnealy.

McKnealy sent word of his action to John Hobble of Liberal, Kan., national 40 & 8 chief.

The parent legion and its 40 & 8 offspring have been arguing for several years over a society rule that prohibited blacks from joining.

The legion national convention in Minneapolis last August declared the 40 & 8 membership restriction illegal. Later, the legion's National Executive Committee authorized McKnealy to take any steps he felt necessary to solve the problem.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal physician may be addressed when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen does not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

HOME ADAPTATIONS IN PARKINSONISM

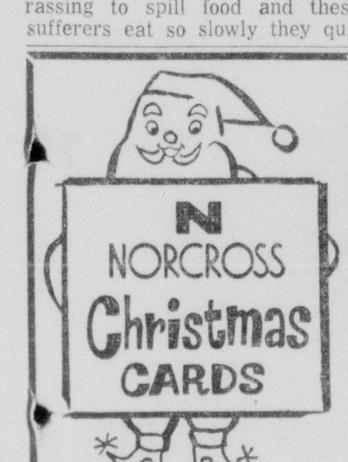

Two thirds of all victims of parkinsonism are over 60. The majority have marked tremor of the hands and head, lack coordination, and move slowly and deliberately. They lean forward and take short steps when walking. The arms are kept at the side due to loss of swing.

Various medicines are available to lessen the handicap but the majority of afflicted persons need help at home in order to get about safely and avoid accidents. This aspect is seldom considered yet it is important for more comfortable living. Many of these suggestions apply to any household where older men and women live.

The least expensive change is to eliminate scatter rugs and slippery floor surfaces. Even a general fall caused by slipping on a rug or tripping over a doorstep may break the hip and the ensuing fracture may be a catastrophe to these people.

There are dozens of other tricks to maintain balance and prevent falls. A wooden or metal handle fastened to the wall opposite a door knob will enable an unsteady individual to support himself while opening the door. Those living on one floor are fortunate because they do not contend with stairs. Stairways should be protected with balustrades or supports on the wall unless the family can afford an electric elevator.

It is difficult to eat when the hands tremble. Many solve the problem by not eating and this and not the disease is responsible for weight loss. It is embarrassing to spill food and these sufferers eat so slowly they quit before satisfied. They should be overweight, you are eating too much. Another physician found that my tissues were saturated with 20 pounds of fluid. Not all excess poundage is fat."

We agree, and hope that by this time the Idaho woman's physician has found out why water has accumulated in this way. When I write about obesity I assume the excess stems from fat and not from water or heavy muscles. Differences are easily determined but examination is required.

A Palatine, Ill., mother was happy to read the article about bladder distress stemming from allergy. "My son was a bedwetter for 12 years. I noted on several occasions that the urinary condition was prone to occur whenever he had nasal congestion and thought perhaps allergy might be responsible for both disorders. I went to an allergist who said he never had heard of the relationship but that didn't mean it was impossible. The boy was found to be allergic to dust, molds, and ragweed. After desensitization shots, together with antihistaminic pills, his bladder

R. J. writes: Every winter I develop cracks in the skin of my soles, heels, and palms. Is there any way to prevent this nuisance besides keeping the skin dry?

REPLY

The commonest causes of this condition are dryness, chapping, and the use of strong soaps or detergents. Lubricating the skin helps, including the use of creams or lotions containing silicone. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on skin cracks.

SOUND REACTION

L. M. writes: How does a physician decide if a rash is due to allergy or to nerves?

REPLY

By asking questions on whether the eruption follows emotional upheavals, eating certain foods, inhaling dust, or coming into contact with irritating fabrics, cosmetics, or other substances. Skin tests and elimination diets aid in uncovering allergens. Response to an anti-allergenic drug or a tranquilizer offers additional clues.

SOUND TREATMENT

M. S. writes: Is the ultrasound treatment of Meniere's disease successful?

REPLY

Yes, but it is a highly technical procedure that only a few physicians do.

VOX POP

A woman who lives on Montana avenue in a town in Idaho took me to talk about an article on losing weight. "You sound just like the doctor I used to go to. His refrain was 'If you are

DEAR ABBY

'He Who Hesitates Is Lost'—So Take Action

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Please don't print my name because everyone in this town knows me. Now for my problem: I have been widowed many years. I've had numerous chances to remarry but I will not go out with just anybody who rings me up.

There is one very desirable professional man (retired) who could figure him out.

DEAR PUZZLED: Don't try to figure out what makes him tick, or you'll have lots of time on your hands.

DEAR ABBY: My mother and father have been married happily for 15 years, or least I thought they were. My mother met a man recently. Every time I come home from school his car is in our driveway. She calls him on the telephone and he calls her when my father isn't home. Maybe it is only my imagination and maybe it isn't even any of my business, but do you think I should ask my mother what it is all about?

WORRIED DEAR WORRIED: It is certainly your business. Ask your mother.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is very sensitive because he can't read very fast or very well. He was taught to read by sight, but when it comes to a new word, he can't sound it out. I've tried to help him, but I'm no teacher. He won't go to church because he's afraid he might be called upon to read aloud.

His boss told him that if he took some schooling at work (they have courses to teach the employees more about their work) his chances for promotion would be excellent. But he is ashamed to let anyone know how poorly he reads. Any suggestions would be very much appreciated.

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: There is no "shame" in not knowing. Only in refusing to learn. Find out if your Public School system offers adult education courses. Almost all communities have evening classes for adults who wish to learn elementary reading, writing and arithmetic.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "THE PROFESSOR": I disagree. Civilization is making progress. In every war, they kill you a new way.

What's your problem? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

CARDS WIN ROOKIE PENNANT
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—The St. Louis Cardinals won the Florida Rookie League pennant Thursday, but the victory may prove a costly one.

Gangland Meet Trial Recesses Until Monday

NEW YORK (UPI) — The conspiracy trial of 21 men who were present at the 1957 gangland convention at Apalachin, N.Y., was recessed Friday until next Monday because of the death of a brother of one of the government prosecutors.

Special Assistant Attorney General Milton R. Wessel notified the court that his brother, Louis, had died at White Plains, N.Y. Judge Irving R. Kaufman granted a recess.

Before adjournment, the govern-

Houlihan offered grand jury testimony by former city councilman John C. Montana, of Buffalo, N.Y., who said his presence at the mansion of the late Joseph Barbara Sr. at Apalachin was due to faulty hairs on his car.

He said he stopped at Barbara's home in hopes of finding a mechanic to make the necessary repairs.

FBI agent Frederick Houlihan testified he had questioned two of the defendants, Angelo Sciandra, of Wyoming, Pa., and James (Dave) Ospicchio, of Pittston, Pa., about their presence at the Apalachin gathering.

Houlihan said Ospicchio told him he had been ordered by his firm, Medico Industries, Inc., of Pittsburgh, to go to Barbara's home to repair a deep-well pump. The FBI agent said Sciandra told him Ospicchio had invited him to go along.

Houlihan said he also had questioned Dominic J. Alaimo, charged as a co-conspirator, about the Apalachin meeting. He said Alaimo told him he had been at Barbara's home several times but not in 1957 when the gangland gathering took place.

OAS Set

To Meet On Guatemala

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The council of the Organization of American States (OAS) will meet in an extraordinary session Saturday to hear a complaint that Guatemala may be attacked soon by a Cuban-based force.

Mexican Ambassador Vincente Sanchez Gavito, chairman of the council, said Friday that Dr. Guillermo Saenz de Tejada H., Guatemalan representative on the council, asked for the Saturday session in a note.

Saenz declined to disclose the contents of his note but other sources said it outlined Guatemalan fears that a force is being set up in Cuba in an attempt to overthrow the present regime.

The sources said Saenz charges Cuban armed forces commander Raul Castro and national bank president Ernesto (Che) Guevara, of supporting a force which hopes to overthrow Guatemalan President Miguel Yrigoyen Fuentes.

Saenz' note charges, the sources said, that a group bent on overthrowing the Guatemalan government went to the Cuban officials and said they needed $50,000 and arms and supplies for 500 men to do the job.

They said the note further states that Guevara advanced $10,000 for the operation and that a group of would be invaders from Guatemala and other countries in the hemisphere are in training in Cuba in the Sierra de Escambray and a military camp called Managua.

The note is reported to say that some equipment already has been slipped into Honduras to a staging base that the invaders hope to use in their supposed attack on Guatemala.

Grains Look Steady To Weak Friday

CHICAGO (AP) — Trading in soybeans at firm prices accounted for most of the futures business again Friday on the Board of Trade. Grains generally were steady to weak in meager transactions.

The support for soybeans appeared still to be related to former prices for both oil and meal.

The government report on bean crushings two weeks ago showed considerably increased inventories in both those products and they had exerted a generally bearish influence in the market until the past few days.

Short covering for the weekend gave soybeans their best boost of the day shortly before the close and all contracts finished at or near the day's peaks.

Grains which have been virtually stationary all week showed no signs of a trend either way. Domestic processor buying was almost at a standstill.

At the close, wheat was 1/4 cent a bushel lower to 8 1/2 higher, December $1.97 1/2 - 3/4; corn unchanged to 1/4 lower, December $1.09 1/2 - 3/4; oats 1/4 higher to 1/4 lower, December 78 cents; rye 1/4 lower to 1/4 higher, December $1.32 1/2; soybeans 3/4 - 1 1/2 higher, January $2.20-19 1/2.

HIKE FOR FUN

CLIFTON, N. J. (AP) — Many of the 200 hiking enthusiasts in the Woodland Trail Walkers club are ex-servicemen who once swore off long treks.

"But once they tried it, without the 'must' involved in their Army marches, they found pleasure in getting to places they wouldn't otherwise have seen," says Miss Catherine Servas, club secretary.

Dulles Says Red Campaign Bearing Fruit

NEW YORK (UPI)—Allen Dulles, U. S. intelligence chief, said Friday that Russia's continued campaign to undermine the free world is bearing fruit in Panama, Cuba and elsewhere in the Americas.

Dulles gave no details of Communist successes in Cuba or Panama, where anti-U. S. demonstrations have occurred recently.

But he added that: "Popular front governments are still being planned by Moscow for several countries which today have close ties with us."

Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, said "penetration and subversion of governments which do not 'cooperate' with Moscow or Peiping" was one of the weapons world communism was using against capitalism.

Addressing the 64th congress of American industry sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers, Dulles said Latin American Communists were told to emphasize "nationalism" in an attempt to break up inter-American friendships.

He said details for carrying out the policy were outlined at the 21st Communist Party congress in Moscow last February.

But he added that: "Popular front governments are still being planned by Moscow for several

Safety Bureau

Issues Cards

On Drinking

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI)—Fat people it all over skinny ones in being able to drive after drinking, according to the state Traffic Safety Bureau.

The bureau is distributing little cards to bartenders warning that a 100-pounder would be a road risk after four drinks.

Persons weighing 160 pounds shouldn't drive after six drinks, the card says.

But a 240-pounder can take up to 10 or more drinks before becoming a highway hazard, the card says.

"It almost looks like an invitation to drink," he commented, pointing out that the card indicates a 240-pounder can have nine drinks and still steer safely.

"That just isn't so," he said. "Any motorist, after two drinks, will probably just look at the card and say 'so what,' anyway."

Trend House

We continue to be amazed at the great distances people are traveling to trade with us here at Trend House. Surely, we expected they'd come from fifty or sixty miles, but every week we have shoppers from a hundred miles, a hundred and fifty and even three hundred miles away. They express amazement, too, at what they find in our gift department, our accessories, and in the more than one hundred in-the-home settings such as we have pictured here. Many of them have told us that ours is the most beautiful . . . the most unusual store they've ever seen. They all tell us they like the new concept in home furnishings which we offer.
